Five Towns Isolated In North Washington

SEATTLE (AP)—Washington of the Pacific northwest states today counted the most damage following the week-end storm.

Hundreds of families were evacuated as the boiled waters of the Skagit River in northwest Washington isolated five towns in the Skagit Valley. Four other communities were threatened as five inches of rain fell during a 24-hour span in the upper valley. The immediate threat appeared, however, to have passed. Early today the normally-placid waterway hit its crest with about a foot to spare at Mount Vernon, where rain-drenched sandbag crews of from 300 to 500 men worked to keep the river within its dikes.

Water lay six to eight inches deep over eight square blocks of the city which are about six feet below the level of the river. Merchants moved their store goods to second-story levels.

Approximately 250 persons were evacuated by army and Coast Guard crews from nearby Hamilton. Seven horses were known lost and a herd of 45 dairy cattle stood neck-deep in flood waters mid-afternoon Sunday. The Lyman-Hamilton road was covered five and six feet deep.

The towns of Lyman, Concrete, Rockport and Marblemount also were isolated. Conway, Burlington, Avon and Sedro Woolley were threatened.

As anxious Skagit Valley residents awaited the river's next crest, new flood dangers were reported farther north where the surging Nooksack River threatened to inundate the fishing village of Marietta, a community of about 300 persons eight miles northwest of Bellingham. All possible aid was summoned from the Coast Guard and nearby Fort Casey.

Two Alberni Families Made Homeless By Flood

(Special to Victoria Times)

PORT ALBERNI—Two families were rendered homeless, district roads damaged and closed temporarily, a logging camp and a sawmill shut down, owing to raging rivers, debris and abnormal conditions in the forest in the Alberni district.

Divers this morning are conducting an intensive search of Alberni Inlet for the taxi missing with driver and possibly two fares since Saturday night.

Rising flood waters following heavy storms Saturday, rendered the families of K. Sanderson at Great Central Lake and F. McLean of Alberni District, homeless.

Raging waters of the Somass River, said to be half-mile wide, dispossessed the McLean family, who reside near the river, above Paper Mill Dam. Returning to waist-high water to retrieve bedding, they were forced to fell a tree to return to higher land.

Dredge With $20,000 Placer Gold Wrecked In Flood Near Princeton

PRINCETON (CP)—A dredge carrying $20,000 worth of placer gold was ripped from its moorings and piled up in a twisted wreck near here Sunday as torrential rains accompanying the Pacific northwest storm sent district streams to unprecedented fall levels.

The dredge, operated by the James M. Gerety Co. of Portland, Ore., had been in operation only two weeks and its gold load was to have been the company's first "returns" from the enterprise. It had been working the Tulameen River just above the confluence with the Similkameen.

The screaming gale and rainstorm whipped the river into white fury during the night and sent it to almost spring flood levels. Logs and debris, racing wildly down the river, snapped the mooring lines on the dredge and carried it away.

The superstructure was ripped off by a Canadian Pacific Railway bridge 100 yards from the dredge's dock. The remnants of the dredge whirled down river a mile and a half before piling up, completely wrecked, on the shore.

The rainfall, recorded here at almost two inches, was the heaviest on local record.

Victoria Escapes Lightly

Greater Victoria was buffeted in heavy winds and rain which lashed the Pacific coast during the week-end but in comparison with mainland districts damage was light.

A few power and telephone lines were broken by falling branches, a half-dozen storm drains were clogged and a little basement flooding was reported, ditches were filled with pelting rain and low-lying fields began to flood.

B.C.E.R. officials said lines stood up well to the storm.

"We got off much lighter than we've done in previous blows of similar intensity," a spokesman said.

The B.C. Telephone Company reported "only minor trouble" on exchanges of the Greater Victoria area.

"We got off easy," said Duncan McCaig, city superintendent of public works. Only emergency calls received were Saturday night when two small storm drains had to be cleared.

WATCHING COLQUITZ CREEK

Sanich officials were keeping their eyes on Colquitz Creek which was a rushing torrent. It was hoped the water would recede quickly. Some reports were received from home-owners that municipal ditches needed clearing. Water was pouring into their basements.

Oak Bay officials said the municipality "escaped lightly." A few basements were flooded and one of two street lights were put out, but no lines were reported down. Bowker Creek, often a source of trouble during heavy rains, stayed within bounds.

Esquimalt's superintendent of works, E. Fulcher, said there was no damage or trouble of any kind in the municipality.

Vernon Mulatto Faces Murder Charge

VANCOUVER (CP)—A province-wide search for Joseph Oulette, sought on a murder warrant, ended here Saturday night when two detectives arrested the 24-year-old mulatto at gunpoint.

A warrant charging him with the murder of two elderly Chinese at Vernon had been issued Friday night. Oulette was employed by the market-gardeners.

Accompanied by a 16-year-old Indian girl, Oulette was picked up when detectives Matt Rose and Tom Stokes checked a skid-road hotel.

The bodies of the two Chinese, Mah Sing and Lee On, were found Thursday in their cabin near Vernon. Both men had been dead several days.

Caterpillar Reopens Malahat To Traffic

All traffic over the Malahat was stopped Saturday night at 9 when heavy rain washed away a large section of the embankment 150 yards north of Tunnel Hill, sending tons of gravel to block the roadway. Gravel covered the road for 55 feet. In places it was eight feet deep. Department of Public Works crews were on the scene within an hour and had a passage cut large enough to handle one-way traffic by 2 Sunday morning. Large caterpillar tractor, above, driven by Gordon Cosh, had whole section cleared by Sunday noon. (See page 2 for other pictures.)

Storm Death Toll 10 On Island; Damage To Property Said Small

The death toll on Vancouver Island following the worst fall storm in years today was believed 10.

Three are missing at Port Alberni after it is believed a car plunged into the Alberni Canal.

J. T. Berentzen of Prince Rupert was killed and three others were hurt when the car in which they were traveling skidded on wet pavement and smashed into a bridge near Nanaimo.

Six members of the crew of the Victoria tug George McGregor are missing believed drowned after the tug capsized off Trial Island early Saturday morning.

For the most part Vancouver Island seems to have come through the storm with comparatively small damage to highways, power and telephone lines, homes and other property.

The Indian village at Westholme was said inundated but reports on conditions there were not immediately available.

Two families in the Alberni district are homeless because of floods in their homes.

The Island Highway over the Malahat was closed for five hours Saturday night while works department crews cleared away a slide near Tunnel Hill.

The old Island Highway route to Cowichan Bay was blocked by a slide but entrance to the village was possible from the north end.

TWO VILLAGES ISOLATED

Two Lake Cowichan villages were isolated when bridges went out on the Youbou and Honey-moon Bay roads. Wooden planks were thrown across floating logs to allow persons on foot to cross the washed-out sections Sunday. Part of the government fish hatchery at the lake broke away from its moorings and floated down the lake.

Trees fell across powerlines interrupting electric services in the Sooke and Shawnigan Lake areas.

The Alberni road today was reported sticky but passable after the storm during which Cameron Lake rose 10 feet. While the road was safe, Works Minister E. C. Carson said that more rip-rap would be needed along the section of the highway completed this year to protect it from a repetition of the storm.

Mr. Carson, who made a tour of the island roads Sunday, said he believed the damage would not be large. He said there was plenty of debris around but he believed the road would be undamaged when this was cleared away.

False work under the new Chemainus and Cowichan Island Highway bridges was carried away but the bridges, still in the process of erection, are believed safe. The false work will have to be replaced in the case of the Cowichan structure but at the Chemainus bridge crews were planning to remove it shortly as the bridge is nearly completed.

Mr. Carson said that all the permanent bridges on the Island Highway, most of them erected within the past two or three years, had withstood the rising waters without damage.

MALAHAT CLEARED

The Malahat slide occurred at 9 Saturday night and covered the highway for 55 feet, in some places eight feet deep. A trench wide enough to accommodate one-way traffic was cut through by 2 Sunday morning. By noon most of the debris had been cleared away.

Half-mile north of road block, 10-room house under construction was threatened when 30-foot dirt embankment on which a house is built began to crumble.

Basil Peden, owner and builder of house, became anxious when crack developed in earth under corner of foundation. He feared weakening embankment might give way under weight of house and rushed to Victoria to get a man with caterpillar tractor.

Although delayed by road slide, bulldozer arrived in time to divert stream of water which was washing away the bank, and the house was saved.

NO GREAT DAMAGE

False work under the new Chemainus and Cowichan Island Highway bridges was carried away but the bridges, still in the process of erection, are believed safe. The storm lost its haymaking punch after crossing the Rocky Mountains. It was a mild shadow of its original self as it whisked snow through Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Montana and North Dakota.

Army engineers from Chilliwack took over at West Vancouver, where 40 feet of a 200-foot bridge spanning the Capilano River was washed away. The army engineers whipped a Bailey bridge across the gap in a little over six hours and traffic was proceeding slowly today.

10 Bridges Washed Out In B.C.; Nine Highways Blocked

By BRITISH UNITED PRESS

A death-dealing Pacific storm roared inland today after leaving a trail of almost 20 dead and missing and cutting off some 800,000 westerners from the rest of Canada during the week-end.

Near hurricane force winds of 90 miles an hour severed British Columbia's rail and highway links with outside points and wrought a toll of property damage estimated at millions of dollars.

Boiling out of the northwest Pacific, the storm cut a 1,200-mile swath through British Columbia, Washington and Oregon, lessening in strength after heading into the midwest provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Its high point was reported at Cut Bank, Montana, 50 miles south of Lethbridge, Alta., where wind was clocked at 100 miles an hour.

British Columbians saw 10 bridges washed out, five in danger, 11 rivers overflowing their banks, nine major highways blocked and scores of secondary roads cut off. Two pleasure boats were sunk at Port Alberni, and a tug went down off Victoria. Nearly 45,000 British Columbia loggers were not working today as almost all logging camps closed throughout the province.

Railways Restored Today

Lines of the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway were expected to be in operation late today. Company officials said Pacific Great Eastern Railway lines to the central interior "might be operating by Wednesday."

The Hope-Princeton Highway opened Nov. 2 was blocked by two slides east of Hope, but according to advice received by Works Minister E. C. Carson in Victoria, would be opened today. Mr. Carson said slides had been expected on the new highway and equipment provided to clear them away had gone into action immediately.

The Trans-Canada Highway was blocked at two places in the Fraser Canyon and its proposed closing today for three weeks to repair bridges in the canyon would probably be postponed, mainly because the railways are not operating, Mr. Carson said.

One small bridge above Hope was damaged and a slide blocked the road between Boston Bar and Lytton.

A few emergency telephone lines to the midwest and east were connected late Sunday night by the B.C. Telephone Company.

but three and four-hour delays were reported on most calls. Similar delays were recorded in the interior of British Columbia.

Power blackouts were felt throughout the Fraser Valley. They lasted from half an hour at Chilliwack, to an expected 36 hours at Hope.

The 1,000 residents of Hope and district were cut off completely from the rest of the province. They lost their power at 10 p.m. Saturday, and it was expected to be restored later today.

Near-record snowfalls occurred at the North Shore mountains behind Vancouver, where a weather bureau official estimated unofficially that seven inches fell, and at Seymour Creek, where an unofficial 9.2 inches blanketed the area.

Worst floods were at Squamish, 45 miles northwest of Vancouver and terminus of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway. Three bridges, including the 500-foot P.G.E. Railway bridge, were wiped out by the overflowing Squamish and Mamquam rivers. Some 300 homes were temporarily isolated by seven feet of water which covered the lush valley farmland.

Dwindles East Of Rockies

South of the U.S. border at least seven persons were dead as a result of the storm. The world's largest unsupported tower, the 815-foot Spokane radio station KHQ tower was snapped by wind of near-hurricane force at the 300-foot mark.

The storm lost its haymaking punch after crossing the Rocky Mountains. It was a mild shadow of its original self as it whisked snow through Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Montana and North Dakota.

Army engineers from Chilliwack took over at West Vancouver, where 40 feet of a 200-foot bridge spanning the Capilano River was washed away. The army engineers whipped a Bailey bridge across the gap in a little over six hours and traffic was proceeding slowly today.

Vancouver residents drank and washed in brownish water that gushed from city taps after the Greater Vancouver Water Board analyzed and told them it was not contaminated.

A five-hour ordeal amid sweeping winds and showers aboard a rowboat washed up on a rock in the Capilano River at West Vancouver was experienced by fisherman John Johnson, his wife and three-year-old daughter Carol. They said they had climbed into the boat to get away from their flooding house, but were caught in a torrent and the boat smashed against a rock.

Police rescued them by building a floating bridge out to them after five hours of work.

Two men and a woman were drowned 15 miles south of their loops in Trapp Lake when their car skidded on a rain-soaked road and plunged over a 30-foot bank into the lake.

Gordon Fullerton was blown into raging Capilano River at West Vancouver Saturday night and was drowned. He was a volunteer sandbag worker.

At Vancouver, 70-year-old Sidney Auld died when two cars skidded and smashed into him from both sides.

Bus, Train Service Running Up-Island

Services of both Vancouver Island Coach Lines Ltd. and the E. & N. Railway were running up-island on schedule today.

V.I.C.L. officials reported they were having no difficulty and that buses were operating right through on all up-island runs.

E. & N. officials said that everything had returned to normal today and the service was back on schedule. There was some storm damage trouble at Koksilah Sunday, but everything was back in running order this morning.

Island Users Urged To Conserve Power

Because of the storm damage to the Canadian Colliers Fuel-ted power plant, users of electricity in the Courtenay, Comox, Cumberland and Royston areas have been requested to conserve the use of electricity as much as possible. It is believed the rush of water through the penstocks down to the turbines may have caused a leak, reducing the amount of power produced. Conservation of electricity now may avoid a complete shutdown later.

2,000 Reported Dead By Fire In Uranium Mine At Erz, Soviet Zone

BERLIN (AP)—The British-licensed newspaper Telegraf said today 2,000 persons perished in a uranium mine fire in the Soviet zone last Thursday. The paper said it was one of the worst mine disasters in history and charged it was due to negligence.

In an early edition, the Telegraf said 400 German miners died in the blaze, which occurred in a mine in the Erz Mountains, on the Saxony-Czechoslovak border, near Johanngeorgenstadt. In its evening edition, it said later reports had revised the casualty list upward to 2,000. Only 300 miners were reported rescued. The bulk of the workers, said the Telegraf, were political prisoners.

The American-sponsored Berlin radio Rias, said it had received a report from a reliable source that hundreds of miners had burned or suffocated in a Johanngeorgenstadt uranium mine fire.

U.S. intelligence officers said they had not heard any reports yet on such a disaster.

TOWER WRECKED

The Telegraf said the fire had spread from mine NR. 35 to two nearby workings and that an explosives dump detonated, wrecking a mine hoisting tower. It said the blaze started when worn insulation on mine electric cables caused a short circuit. The deaths were said to have been caused by fire, smoke and gas.

The paper said rescue teams from all nearby cities in Saxony were at the scene and that up to Friday night, 968 bodies had been recovered.

It estimated that about half the full working force of 5,000 was on the job at the time of the tragedy and declared the rescue teams did not arrive until 12 hours after it had occurred.

The paper also reported 300 miners were drowned several weeks ago when another uranium mine was flooded. Uranium is used in the production of atomic energy.

West Vancouver Storm Ravaged

B.C. Storm Kills 18; Damage In Millions

By CANADIAN PRESS

The storm death toll in British Columbia stood at 18 today as work crews labored under cloudy skies to restore communications.

The storm with hurricane winds laden with heavy rains swept the Pacific Northwest during the week-end.

Damage totaled millions of dollars in British Columbia alone, with added toll of property and lives in the states of Washington, Oregon and Montana, where eight persons died.

Five persons were believed killed at Port Alberni when their car plunged off a wharf; six died when the Victoria tug George McGregor capsized off Trial Island; one died and several were injured in a traffic accident on a rain-soaked highway near Nanaimo; a trolley master is missing off Nootka; three drowned near Kamloops when their car skidded into Trapp Lake; one man was drowned in the swirling waters of Capilano River in West Vancouver, and a Vancouver man was killed when two skidding cars crashed into him.

Train service to eastern Canada, both on the C.P.R. and C.N.R., was halted, both lines cut by rock slides in the Fraser Canyon, 150 miles east of here.

Railway spokesmen refuse to estimate when the slides, which roared down the mountains following torrential rains, would be cleared. Service may not be restored until tomorrow.

A railway section foreman was injured and his wife also hurt when trapped by a landslide that destroyed their home near Lear, 18 miles east of Hope, 100 miles from Vancouver. Tons of rock and mud swept down the mountain side.

In suburban West Vancouver, where flash floods caused thousands of dollars' property damage, highway traffic was restored.

Army Replaces Lost Bridge

Canadian army engineers constructed a Bailey bridge, laboring throughout the night, spanning the Capilano River, where a bridge was washed out Saturday, isolating the suburb of 12,000.

Earlier, thousands used an emergency ferry service to reach their work in Greater Vancouver.

(The Hope-Princeton Highway, opened Nov. 2 and now blocked by washouts near Mile 31, will be reopened Wednesday noon, public works department officials in Victoria said. Three power shovels have been sent to the scene.)

(A slide near Flood which blocked the Trans-Canada Highway west of Hope has been cleared away.)

(East of Hope the Trans-Canada Highway is blocked in the Fraser Canyon by a washout east of Alexandra which will take until Wednesday to repair. The road, however, will not be re-

Man Missing

Provincial police headquarters here reported today a search is under way for Donald McDonald, logging contractor of the Sayward district of northern Vancouver Island, who has been missing since Saturday. He is believed to have drowned in a creek.

Greater Victoria was buffeted in heavy winds and rain which lashed the Pacific coast during the week-end but in comparison with mainland districts damage was light.

New $65,000 Tourist Court On Gorge Road

A $65,000 24-suite auto court is being constructed on Gorge Road near the Windsor Auto Court, it was learned today.

Builder is J. G. Nordel, 241 Gorge Road, who has taken out permits from the city building department to build an office building and one four-suite unit, the office building to cost $8,000 and the court unit $9,500.

Property on which the court is being built is at the southwest corner of Gorge Road and Washington Avenue. The old Wilkinson Co-operative was located on the property years ago. An old house situated at the corner is known as "The Old Oaken Bucket."

All buildings on the land, which slopes down to the water's edge, will be demolished.

Contractor is Henry Cote and plan is to build a triangular parking area in the middle of the property with roads connecting the suites. Entrance to the court will be off Gorge Road.

Fisherman Missing From Wrecked Boat

Aloysius Andrews, skipper of the trawler Westhope, is missing and believed to have drowned when his fishing vessel was wrecked off Nootka on the west coast of Vancouver Island Friday, it was reported here today.

A search is being conducted for the missing man by B.C. Police Motor Launch No. 16.

Alberni Diver Finds Bodies Of Passengers

(Special to Victoria Times)

PORT ALBERNI—Bodies of cab driver Tommy McDonald and four passengers, two men and two women, were found by a diver in 35 feet of water in the Alberni Canal this afternoon.

The dead passengers are: Eli Grand, engineer aboard the seiner Pacific Sunset; Chris Ungsted, crewman aboard the seiner Anlack; Jean Charlet; Mrs. Ralph Trelvik.

Diver who recovered the bodies was Archie McMillan. The cab left the Somass Hotel at 10.30 Saturday night, apparently to carry the passengers to the Western Commander, a seiner tied up at the Assembly Wharf.

Grease has been found on the wharf and marks 42 inches apart which police believe may have been caused by the springs of the car scraping as the cab went over.

Tom Hovden, skipper of the Pacific Sunset, is in hospital today at Nanaimo. He was one of several injured in an auto accident near Nanaimo Saturday night.

The severe week-end storm which swept Vancouver Island and other parts of the Pacific northwest is believed a contributing factor in both these accidents.

Warned of the high winds and heavy seas, the fishing fleet had taken shelter at centres along the west and east coasts, and fishermen were reunited with their families for the first time in weeks.

Continue Gold Work

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Gold miner James M. Gerety of Portland, Ore., reported today the west coast storm had wrecked some $250,000 worth of gold dredging work near Princeton, B.C.

Undaunted by the stroke of bad luck, Gerety said the Princeton operations would continue.

(See "Dredge With $20,000 page 30.)

Island Man Gets Navy Appointment

OTTAWA (CP)—Lieut. Henry A. Porter, 29, of Ladysmith, B.C., and Halifax, has been appointed officer-in-charge of the naval communication school at Halifax. Naval Headquarters announced today. He succeeds Lt. Cmdr. John C. O'Brien, 31, of Montreal.

Lieut. Porter has been serving on the staff of the Flag Officer Atlantic Coast as staff officer in charge of operations and communications since June, 1948. He joined the navy at Esquimalt, B.C., in November, 1939, and served aboard the Canadian auxiliary cruiser Prince Robert and the destroyer Kootenay during the Second World War.

Plane, 12 Aboard, Lost In Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (CP)—A Colombian Airlines plane carrying 12 persons and a much-venerated statue was reported to have crashed Sunday in Central Colombia. The nine passengers and crew of three, all Colombians, are believed to have been killed.

Aboard the plane was a statue of the Virgin of Fatima, sent by the Portuguese government on an air tour of South America.

Hope To Salvage Tug; Federal Inquiry Set

Attempts will be made to locate, salvage and return to service the tug George McGregor, which capsized and sank off Trial Island Saturday, taking the lives of six of her seven Victoria crew members, it was reported today.

In the meantime, plans are being made to hold an inquiry into the sinking. T. E. Morrison, agent for the Department of Transport, said it probably would be held in the middle of this week.

Heading the inquiry will be Capt. J. Barber, chief examiner

Guerrilla Threat To Greece Crushed, Truman Declares

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman reported today that the Greek government, with U.S. military help, has "substantially eliminated" the Communist guerrilla threat to Greece.

The President warned in a report to Congress, however, that "persistent vigilance and patience" will be required to prevent the Communist-led rebels from again threatening to overthrow the Greek government.

The report said most of the Communist revolutionaries had now fled into Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia, abandoning most of their artillery and other weapons and equipment.

The report disclosed that in order to crush the Communist rebellion, the United States supplied a total of $472,461,000 in military and economic aid. Of this total, 345,335,000 went for military supplies.

In telling Congress of the apparent success of the program, Mr. Truman said the main reason for victory is the "courage of the people and fighting men of Greece."

MOPPING UP

He said the Greek government armed forces still must mop up isolated bands of guerrillas and seal the border against possible new incursions.

The President's report made plain the United States has no intention of abandoning Greece now that the immediate threat posed by the Communists is over. Both Greece and Turkey, the report noted, are due to get additional military help under the new military assistance program, which also is to help rearm the Atlantic Pact countries of western Europe.

Victoria Western Terminus For Trans-Canada Highway

OTTAWA (CP)—Reconstruction Minister Winters today set the early spring of 1950 as the starting point for a $300,000,000, two-lane Trans-Canada Highway and said it should be completed by 1957.

He moved in the Commons for second reading—approval in principle—of a bill "to encourage and assist in the construction" of a 5,000-mile highway that will extend from Victoria to St. John's, Nfld., and take in Prince Edward Island.

The minister stressed that Ottawa will bear not only half of the cost of new construction but will give the provinces 50 per cent of the cost of existing roads which become part of the route.

MORE THAN HALF

He said, too, that a Dominion-provincial conference to clear up "all matters of technical detail" will be called once the present legislation is passed.

Mr. Winters said federal absorption of half the cost of existing roads that become part of the highway "will have the effect of making the federal government's contribution toward highway remaining to be completed considerably more than 50 per cent."

He cited the example of a province where $20,000,000 would be needed to complete the highway and where that province has already spent $8,000,000 on portions which will be part of it.

He said: "The federal government contribution to the new construction would be $10,000,000 toward the new construction plus 50 per cent of costs previously incurred, or $4,000,000, for a total contribution of $14,000,000. If the province applies this contribution of $4,000,000 against the cost of completing the highway, federal money in the $20,000,000 expenditure would amount to $14,000,000, or 70 per cent.

Speaking generally, the minister said 10 basic proposals put forward by Ottawa "were well received by the provinces." These include provision for "a modern, first-class, hard-surfaced road following the shortest practical east-west route consistent with the needs of the provinces and Canada as a whole."

Canada Negotiating With Britain On Food Contracts

OTTAWA (CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said today food contract negotiations with the United Kingdom still are going on and the government is "hopeful that satisfactory arrangements can be reached."

Answering a question from Earl Catherwood (P.C., Halifax, N.S.) he said the current situation is the same as it was at this time in 1948 and 1947, with discussions going on until mid-December.

Egg, bacon and cheese contracts still were under discussion and the government was in no position to make any announcement at this time.

Hazen Argue (C.C.F.-Wood Mountain, Man.) asked for a statement on plans of the Food and Agricultural Organization to take care of food surpluses. Mr. Gardiner said he would be willing to place on record an extended statement he made last week.

'RE-JOBULATION' PLEA

A READER OF THIS column who declares himself much intrigued by my occasional outbursts against "gobbledygook" has sent me a copy of an amusing example of a West African's quaint use of English.

The Colonial Office in London received it from one of its bureaus in Nigeria, the missive having been written by a native employee who unexpectedly found himself "disemployed." The letter starts out:

"Honored Sir: On opening this epistle you will behold the work of a dejobbed person and a very bewildered and much childrenized gentleman, who was violently dejobbed in a twinkling by your good self.

"For heaven's sake, sir, consider this catastrophe as falling on your own head, and remind yourself on walking home at the moon's end to five savage wives and 16 voracious children with your pocket filled with non-existent pounds, shillings and pence and a solitary sixpence pity my horrible state."

PLAINTIVE NOTE

AFTER THAT TOUCHING allusion to his plight, the "de-jobbed" one makes this plaintive plea:

"As to the reason given by yourself esquire for my dejobment the incrimination was laziness. No, sir. It were impossible that myself who pitched 16 children into this vale of tears can have a lazy atom in his mortal frame, and a sudden departure of 11 pounds has left me on the verge of destitution and despair.

"I hope this vision of horror will enrich your dreams this night and the good angel will melt and pulverize your heart of nether milestone so that you will awaken with such alacrity to rejobulate your servant. So mote it be, amen."

FLAYS 'BARNACULAR'

THAT MOVING PICTURE should have been enough to melt any nether milestone of an official heart, but history doesn't record whether the erudite native was re-jobulated or not.

But his choice of English lends point to a protest made by a Scottish author, Ivor Brown, when speaking in Perth recently. He took issue with what he described as "barnacular"—those $64-words which cling like parasite barnacles to the vernacular, the plain old language most people speak every day.

"If a man calls food food, he is a simple fellow," he told a meeting of librarians, "but if he can write a memo about 'units of nutritional intake' he is regarded as an indispensable expert and may even get a raise in salary. No one is poor. Instead, he is 'underprivileged.'"

LOST MEANINGS

HOW TRUE THAT Scot's observations are! His strictures are in accord with something that H. Napier Moore, well-known Toronto editor, said when speaking about the difficulty editors have in impressing people these days.

Like many another student of words, Mr. Moore deplored the fact that the old simple words are losing their meaning and their force. He blamed it on headline writers, sales promotion men and government officials. As he said:

"They have deluged people with initials, abbreviations, and complicated phraseology. Each of these, to convince people he is an expert, must invent a jargon of his own. These are the people who would call a rat catcher a 'rodent executive.'"

PEERS AND GENTLEMEN

TALKING OF LOST meanings, it reminds me of the loose use to which the words, "lady" and "gentlemen" are given these days. Which also recalls to my mind a delightful anecdote about Max Beerbohm, famous cartoonist and wit of Edwardian days.

Someone stole his umbrella from the very exclusive London club to which he belonged. On discovering his loss, Beerbohm wrote a note and attached it to the club notice board. It read: "Will the peer who stole my umbrella please return it."

When several members voiced their shocked protests against this affront to the peerage, the imperturbable Max replied: "By the charter of this club, membership is restricted to peers and gentlemen. Now it follows that no gentleman would steal my umbrella. The servants are above suspicion. Therefore, my dear fellows, it must have been a peer."

Trapped In Bank Slide

Caterpillar tractor being used in attempt to divert torrent of water flooding section of Malahat roadway near Tunnel Hill was trapped Sunday when gravel bank gave way, partially burying powerful machine. Flooding occurred when a nearby culvert became blocked in another gravel slide. Situation was righted about 1 p.m. Sunday by workmen who had been on the job for 13 hours.

Ten-Room Home Saved

Fear for the safety of large 10-room home he has under construction on Malahat gripped Basil Peden, right, when 30-foot embankment on which his house is built began to crumple Saturday night following heavy rain. When a crack developed under one corner of house, Peden rushed to Victoria to find man with caterpillar tractor. Although delayed by road washout further down hill, tractor arrived at scene by 2.30 Sunday morning and diverted stream of water which was undermining foundation.

Find Hidden Diamonds

CHICAGO (AP) — Investigators sifting through the musty rooms where an elderly woman recluses died have found a hidden fortune in diamonds. A lawyer for the administrator of the estate of Mrs. Linda Belle Titus Know said diamonds weighing a total of more than 1,000 carats were found packed in medicine bottles, match boxes and old newspapers in the false bottom of a trunk.

Dynamite No Good Says 'Expert' But Judge Happy It Was Absent

Victoria's courthouse stands today as it has for many a year, but precautions were taken to make sure there was no change in the status of the Bastion Street building when a case in which Maurice Fraser was charged with possession of an illegal intent of 24 sticks of 60 per cent dynamite, came before Judge H. H. Shandley in County Court.

Running Blockade, U.S.-Flag Freighter Shelled By Chinese

WASHINGTON (BUP)—State Department officials reported Chinese Nationalist warships off Shanghai shelled the U.S. freighter Sir John Franklin today.

The vessel was hit 12 times, they said. The Sir John Franklin, owned by the Isbrandtsen Co. of New York, was fired on while trying to run the Nationalist blockade of Shanghai. The vessel was en route from Hongkong to Shanghai.

The State Department announcement, based on a report from the U.S. consulate in Shanghai, said the attack was made at 5 p.m. today Shanghai time. The Sir John Franklin was the latest in a series of Isbrandtsen ships to run into trouble off Shanghai. The company's Flying Cloud was shelled and damaged Nov. 15, as it left Shanghai.

One witness, Ernest Watson, was brought from the provincial penitentiary to give evidence. He told the court he had buried the dynamite in the Colwood area in 1942—and that it would no longer be any good. He is in prison for theft, he said.

"Well, they were afraid enough of the dynamite to keep it at the city's Garbally Road yard. I didn't want it in this building—might blow up the Court of Appeal or the Supreme Court," quipped Judge Shandley.

DYNAMITE 'EXPERT'

Watson said he considered himself a dynamite expert, because of his experience in safe-cracking—an art he had learned "as a kid" from another safe-cracker. He admitted having served time for safe-cracking. Accused, who was with Watson when the explosive was buried seven years ago, testified he had dug the dynamite from under a stump while drunk, intending to dump it in the river from Johnson Street Bridge.

FALSE COURAGE He had not done it earlier, he said, because he was afraid, but added he had false courage when intoxicated.

When Crown prosecutor Joseph Clearhue asked Fraser if he

Catholic Leader's Stand On Open Sunday Lauded By Bishop

Leadership of Archbishop W. M. Duke, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Vancouver, in his attitude to an "open Sunday," was lauded by Rt. Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Anglican Bishop of British Columbia, during the course of a sermon at St. John's Church, Sunday night.

"Any attempt to change Sunday would put us further on the way to a godless civilization," said Bishop Sexton.

He quoted Archbishop Duke's recent statement that: "The preservation of Sunday is of the greatest importance at the present time when the recognition of our duties to Almighty God has practically vanished in many quarters."

SUNDAY A HOLY DAY

Bishop Sexton told the congregation that to the Christian, Sunday is a holy day.

"We are told in the New Testament and in numerous ancient writings that on this day Christians assembled for the worship of their Master, with the breaking of bread and prayers."

He stated the early Christians were not asked to observe the seventh day. It was under the guidance of God's spirit, he said, that the Christian Church from the beginning observed the first day of the week, the Lord's Day as a holy day.

"Sunday became the recognized day of rest when the state became Christian and as such it has to be guarded jealously as a priceless possession," said Bishop Sexton.

"Those people who for selfish reasons of their own profit or gratification break into the sacredness of Sunday are guilty of an imposition upon the personal happiness and well-being of the individual, as well as of an offence against religion." The bishop read two letters from Archbishop Carrington of Quebec who was recently reported as saying that "Sunday is not holy."

The archbishop stated that never in his life had he made any such statement, and he regarded it as entirely false. Sunday was the weekly holy day of all Christians from the beginning, and that is the only view supported by the evidence, Bishop Sexton said, quoting Archbishop Carrington.

The latter stated the Jewish law was not binding upon Christians "or else we would be practising circumcision and observing new moons and destroying statues and pictures." The observance of Sunday has the authority of Our Lord's Apostles, and of the Universal Church, and it is hard to see that any Christian would want any stronger authority, the archbishop said.

"...and safe-blower and one thing and another," commented the judge.

The case was dismissed because, the judge said, there was no evidence that there was an intent to use the dynamite illegally, though he termed Fraser's moves "suspicious."

VANCOUVER (CP)—Death of Sidney Augh, Saturday night raised Vancouver's 1949 traffic fatality toll to 38. Augh was killed almost instantly when struck by a car. His was the fifth traffic death recorded in Vancouver in a week.

Driver Remanded For Judgment On Hit, Run Charge

Trial of Charles Bland, 19 Balmoral Apartments, was concluded in city police court today and he was remanded to tomorrow for judgment. He is alleged to have been the driver of a car which failed to remain at the scene of an accident Nov. 7 on Johnson Street Extension in which a car driven by Lawrence Boutillier, 1155 Wychbury Avenue, was badly damaged and he and his wife, Mary, injured.

John Newham, 733 Admirals Road, told of seeing a coupe going at a fast rate of speed on Esquimalt Road at Head Street without lights prior to the crash. Percy Leach, Johnson Street bridge operator who lives at 757 Wilson Street, said he saw a coupe without lights on going at a terrific pace and traveling in an erratic manner on the wrong side of Esquimalt Road at Dominion Road. Leach said the car in the yard was similar to the one he saw.

Mr. and Mrs. Boutillier told of the crash, how efforts to avoid the car coming in the opposite direction on the wrong side of Alberta government coffers have been enriched by $19,000,000 since the discovery of oil in the Edmonton area.

Wants Age Limit Lowered For Entry To Sea Cadets

A lower age limit to boost recruiting in the Royal Canadian Sea Cadets was urged by Forrest L. Shaw, chairman of the Victoria branch of the Navy League of Canada at an annual dinner given in the Empress Hotel Saturday evening by R. C. Stevenson, co-ordinator of sea cadet activities for naval service.

Mr. Shaw, who acted as chairman of the dinner meeting, outlined some of the difficulties pertaining to operation of sea cadet activities. One of the difficulties, he said, was the present age limits of 14 to 18.

He believed if the entry age limit was lowered to 12, more boys would join the sea cadets as that age was the one when most boys were anxious to get into clubs and other organizations.

EMPIRE CAMP

Mr. Stevenson, who reviewed sea cadet activities, paid particular reference to the Empire camp for sea cadets held at Quebec this year. He expressed the hope that when the next camp was held in the Commonwealth, there would be a good representation of cadets from Canada.

Represented at the dinner were all organizations which had assisted through the year with sea cadet work, including the Royal Canadian Navy, Royal Canadian Navy (Reserve), naval officers association, representatives of branches of the Navy League on Vancouver Island, and officers of R.C.S.C. Rainbow.

Retrial Opens On Narcotics Charge

Re-trial of Kishen Singh, East Indian, charged with possession of morphine and cultivation of opium poppies, opened in Assizes Court today as a newly-selected jury heard evidence of R.C.M.P. constables on the finding of the poppies.

Earlier in the assizes, a jury was discharged after unanimous decision could not be reached.

Defence counsel George Gregory and Crown counsel H. W. Davey, K.C., recalled witnesses and the large amount of evidence was gone through again before Mr. Justice J. M. Coady. The case is continuing.

GETTING IT STRAIGHT

SIR STAFFORD CRIPPS HAS LOST NO time in stating that he "utterly repudiates" those who have been trying to blame at least part of Britain's current troubles on Canada. Certain left-wing members of the Labor Party have voiced the opinion that the senior overseas Dominion had contributed to the critical financial situation in which the United Kingdom now finds itself. It is natural enough, perhaps, that some types of individual should always attempt to find a scapegoat for their difficulties, hoping thereby, no doubt, to minimize their own shortcomings.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer made a point of dispelling any such criticism, and dissociating the Government from all such sentiments. He recalled the outright gift of $1,000,000,000 which Canada had made to Britain in 1942; the interest-free loan of $700,000,000, the provision of $2,000,000,000 worth of supplies through mutual aid, and postwar credits worth $1,250,000,000.

It will not be denied that some of the Dominion's contribution may properly be considered as part of the joint effort to win the war, and a recompense in some small way for the expense and travail which Britain endured in fighting the common fight. Nevertheless, our trade concessions have not been niggardly; our contribution has been cheerfully given. Sir Stafford spoke no less than the truth when he declared that "we have had no better friends than the people of Canada during that period." Those who are trying to create dissension and mistrust are doing their country a greater disservice than any lack of overseas economic help could have done.

VALUABLE HOBBY

OPINION HAS BEEN VOICED BY THE coroner that the life of the youth who died from the explosion of a home-made bomb might have been saved had first aid been rendered promptly at the scene of the accident. The remarks of the public official suggest a course of action that should be encouraged by Greater Victoria parents to the benefit of the entire community. The inferred proposal is that rudimentary training in first aid—available through many agencies here—might be converted into a juvenile hobby of unusual value.

The argument is not advanced here that a boy who wants to make explosives would automatically be satisfied by instruction in the techniques of bandaging, of applying tourniquets, of using splints or of administering artificial respiration. There is a vast difference between the interests of a would-be chemist and those of the potential first aid man. On the other hand, a time arrives in a boy's life when his enthusiasms can be directed—when, seeking some activity as an outlet for his energies, he can be encouraged to adopt one that will be enriching and of practical value.

As far as first aid is concerned, there are innumerable opportunities in this city for instruction. Certain boys' groups, the St. John Ambulance Brigade and other agencies are only too willing to provide tuition. Under adequate promotion, it could become an engrossing study for our young people and one promising considerable profit to the community as a whole.

MAKE IT FINAL

TO SAY THAT THE PEOPLE OF BRIT-ish Columbia have become completely "fed up" with continual Doukhobor trouble is putting it mildly. There can be little doubt that they would back their government in any forthright action that gave promise of remedying the whole situation. Investigations have been made, commissions have been appointed, reports have been written, but no real solution has been advanced. Now we are informed that another commission is to probe the matter, and seek the answer to what Attorney General Gordon Wismer rightly terms "this very difficult situation."

Beyond question the Sons of Freedom have placed themselves beyond the pale of our law. They have consistently refused to observe such portions of the public statutes as they single out for opposition, and they have resorted to force whenever they have thought it would serve their own interest. The law-abiding Doukhobors, to say nothing of the Canadian citizens whose lives and property are endangered from time to time by fanatical acts of terrorism, have been subjected for years to totally unwarranted inconvenience, hazard and expense.

"Soft" treatment has made no impression on the warped minds of this unassimilable and unwanted group of malcontents. Let the government now take such steps, as severe and as strict as necessary, to end once and for all what is nothing less than—and again we commend Mr. Wismer's choice of words—a state of "civil insurrection."

LINK OF STEEL

THE ACTUAL AWARD OF CONTRACTS for steel for the Quesnel-to-Prince George extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, announced last Saturday, puts a firm seal of accomplishment on the project that should remove any lingering doubts entertained by the long-patient residents of the area. Even when the building plans were revealed some months ago by Premier Byron Johnson, there must have been skepticism among many of the people directly concerned. They had heard talk of P.G.E. extension for many years. Only steel would satisfy them.

Now the $2,000,000 contracts have been let. A British firm will supply the thousands of tons of rails, angle bars and plates; a Vancouver mill will provide the bolts, spikes and washers. Meanwhile, the cleared right-of-way through the rugged terrain of the northern interior gives ample promise of the traffic that will follow. The old dream is coming closer to realization. Already the rocky hillsides must be preparing their echoes for the call of the whistles and the rattle of steel wheels. Business will be moving, not only to, but in, B.C.

A KINDLY FIGURE

FAR BEYOND THE LIMITS OF SHOW business, the death of Bill "Bojangles" Robinson will have occasioned keen regret. The kindly figure known to literally millions through his screen appearances, had succeeded in winning his way into the hearts of strangers. Among the people of his own race he enjoyed a form of reverence bestowed upon few individuals.

Many are the stories of his benefactions that have added to a respect for him which ignored color bars. He was the man with the magic feet, whose complicated rhythms brought a new standard of performance to tap-dancing. Though he could lay no claims to the distinctions which have been achieved by others of his people, Dr. Ralph Bunche, for instance, he had about him a certain nobility that was impressive.

Neither an "Uncle Tom" nor a Paul Robeson, Bill Robinson managed to accomplish much in establishing a better feeling of friendliness between citizens of a nation who have been sorely troubled by the angry passions of those who have sought to practice discrimination.

EXERCISING HIS RIGHT

DURING AN ADDRESS TO HIS CON-stituents the other day, Mr. S. N. Evans, Labor member of the British House of Commons for Wednesbury, Staffordshire, said that for every $4 Britain spends at the moment, £3 5s is spent on tobacco and alcohol. The brief account of his remarks which came over the wires did not relate that he indulged in any particular embellishment of that bold statement. But his following remarks are worthy of note:

"For this there can be one reason only. We are still tackling a debtor nation's problems with a creditor nation's psychology. 'Britain's fight for economic independence and the recovery of our financial self-respect depends for success on a 100 per cent co-operation by persons of widely differing political opinions.'

"In these circumstances, to dismiss political opponents as a squalid combination of vermin, knaves and imbeciles is neither wise nor helpful. 'Neither is it ethical to spit on British capitalists, who help to earn dollars, at the same time as we fawn on American capitalists, who give us dollars.'

Mr. Evans may or may not be correct in his argument. But his candor before those who sent him to the House of Commons stands out in contrast to the enforced lack of privilege which marks life in a police state.

INTO THE PAST

THERE IS SOMETHING IRONIC AT first glance in the spectacle of man busying himself in the restoration of the cities and cultures of 4,000 years ago, while the world about him is crying for similar reconstruction work. The point is raised by news that the director of antiquities in Iraq is proceeding with the work of restoring a village that flourished in 2200 B.C. The site, six miles from Baghdad, was partially excavated in 1945, and it is now proposed to rebuild the main temple, a smaller temple and administration buildings and dwellings. "The object," as the authorities put it, "is to provide the archeology student and the layman visitor with an accurate picture of a 2200 B.C. village of the Isin-Larsa period."

An examination of the motives removes any tendency to scoff, for there is much that modern man may learn from the contemplation of history in such concrete form. A code of laws, predating even the code of Hammurabi, has been found inscribed on clay tablets in the village, along with many records of literary, religious and commercial value. There is a humbling thought in the fact that more than four thousand years after the regime of these people we still are grappling with the problems of human relationships, of moral law, of war, of economics, just as they did. And there is not much to indicate that we are being more successful than they were, in fashioning a human society that is acceptable to those who form its majority. By all means let us study the habits and cultures of these ancient civilizations. If we can thereby gain even one small glimpse of truths which have been lost in the intervening centuries then we shall be so much the richer.

NOTES

Winter is that period when a news reel is out of season if it doesn't feature a ski jumper.

Utopia must be the place where they know how to take the wind from long-winded speeches.

New 'Turbo' Age

By JOHN CARR-GREGG from London
A NEW WORLD is opening in transport, as the result of developments in gas turbines, which will replace the steam turbine and the Diesel electric engine.

This is the considered opinion of top-ranking engineers in Britain, which now owns more than 2,000 master patents on gas turbine engines, registered in countries all over the world. Until the advent of an efficient engine powered by atomic energy, nobody is likely to dispute their claim.

Spectacular progress in the design and construction of jet airliners may soon revolutionize schedules on the world's air routes. First successfully developed by the British, the gas turbine jet engine gives greater speed with less weight, uses cheaper fuel and is easier to manufacture than the piston engine.

JET PROPULSION, however, is only the most simple application of the gas turbine engine.

Apart from its application as an engine for turbo-jet and turbo-propeller airplanes, the gas turbine's biggest potential use is probably in the field of marine engineering. Recent reports indicate that it will take less time to progress, with gas turbines, from small craft to ocean-going liners than was the case when the first steam turbine was introduced by Britain more than 60 years ago. Among the bigger ships now being fitted with marine gas turbines are the 8,200-ton tanker "Aurora" and the 11,000-ton cargo vessel "Duquesa." The latter vessel's turbine is expected to save one-third in weight and 35 per cent in fuel consumption compared with a normal marine engine.

BRITISH GAS turbine engines for marine propulsion are being designed for a running life of 100,000 hours at full load and temperature. This corresponds to a useful life of from 20 to 25 years. Special heat-resistant steel is being manufactured for these turbines at Sheffield, England.

Scarcely less important is the influence of the gas turbine on the future design of railroad locomotives. Smaller, lighter and less costly to maintain, the gas turbine locomotive is likely to prove a formidable rival to the Diesel electric.

Not only has the gas turbine a far greater thermal efficiency than the best steam engine—its weight is said to be half that of a Diesel electric unit of equal performance.

TWO GAS turbine locomotives are on order for British railways. One of these, now nearing completion at a Manchester, England, plant is a 2500 h.p. engine believed capable of hauling express passenger trains of up to 650-tons at a maximum speed of 90 m.p.h. The other is a 2,200 h.p. machine with a maximum speed of 70 m.p.h.

In addition, a new general purpose gas turbine unit produced by a Lincoln, England, firm is suitable for either locomotive or marine propulsion. It has the advantages of easy maintenance, portability and absence of vibration.

THE DEVELOPMENT of gas turbines for the generation of electric power is also well advanced. Said to be the first full size stationary generator to be powered by a gas turbine, a 15,000 kw. plant is now nearing completion at Clydebank, Scotland. This is to be installed at the Dundee power plant of the North Scotland Hydro Electric Board where it will replace a conventional steam turbine unit. Though it generates over twice the electric power, the gas turbine generator occupies less space. It will be run on heavy fuel oil but later it may prove possible to run similar machines on pulverized coal, or peat.

If the gas turbine can be adapted to use raw coal as fuel, very low operating costs will result which may ultimately change the whole economic pattern of British industry.

THE GAS turbine generator can operate with only a fraction of the water required by conventional power plants and will therefore have far more latitude in the matter of location than existing electricity utilities: they will operate in "dry" areas where temporary or permanent droughts no longer endanger reliability.

Gas turbine developments now taking place in Britain show that a new industry has begun to take shape. Many formidable technical problems have had to be solved but the reward for decades of painstaking research is now in sight.

Nothing To Do

New York Times

PROBABLY the most piteous wall of them all is that lament of childhood, "There's nothing to do." Into this can be crowded more brooding melancholy than any offered by a large chorus of professional mourners, and it sobs and throbs with sincerity. There really is nothing to do, nothing at all. Toys have lost their charm, friends have departed, the day is dark and the rainbow has led directly away from the crotch of gold. To be alive in the late afternoon, with nothing to do, is to be desolate. To have nothing to do, save face the threat of imminent homework or the supper dishes, is to face great marching hordes of assorted evils. It is tough, that having nothing to do, tough on everyone concerned. It quite properly inspires a lament, but a lament which must not be carried beyond certain known and understood boundaries. For the lament of having nothing to do can lead in time to a spanking, and while that is something to do, it is not necessarily the best thing.

We live in an age of growing self-indulgence, of hardening materialism and of falling moral standards.—Britain's Princess Elizabeth.

"DANGER COMES NOT . . ."

Since you felt that my traffic court appearance was worthy of such a lengthy news item, I trust that you will find enough of the unusual in this letter to warrant its publication.

First let me say that I hold no animus toward anyone. The prosecution was gentlemanly and the finding of the court was just and fair.

Why did I plead "not guilty"? For several reasons. The car was parked at the edge of the road fully lighted by a street light and was in my opinion little if any menace to traffic. No ticket was found on the car. Later I received a summons for an alleged violation with a commercial truck. To have settled out of court would have been to admit guilt and I felt that I was as free from guilt as a frog is from hair.

For 35 years I have driven trucks and passenger cars, if not faultlessly, at least without getting a ticket. It must have been a foolish pride that prompted me to try to keep that record clean. I have no further worries on that score from now on.

It is just possible that there may be a few "dim wits" that don't know the difference between a tail light and a reflector. To them I say if you must venture onto the back streets and by-ways of the hinterland by all means keep moving! If you must stop be sure you have a proper reflector and it would not be a bad idea to keep your parking light on as well. Believe me, danger comes not like a thief in the night but like a rushing mighty wind.

"FOLLOW THE BIRDS"

With further regard to the Humphry Davy article on the use of the gull illustration in our "Follow the Birds" slogan, I would refer all interested to a fine article in December issue of Readers' Digest, entitled "Conversation With a Bird Spotter."

The gull is not only used profusely as an illustration in the article, but more is said about that bird than any other. One paragraph says that the gull breeds on the Gulf of California and goes north in the winter to Vancouver Island.

Will The Action Match The Words?

By BRUCE BLOSSAT, from New York

IN RUSSIA, where you stand in official pictures is very important. It isn't because you'll show up better, but because it tells how you rate with Joseph Stalin.

If your face disappears from the Politburo line-up, no one assumes you just couldn't make it that day. The general feeling is you've been bounced, demoted, sent to Siberia or shot.

TURNED UP MISSING

There was understandable concern, therefore, when it was reported recently that a Politburo member named Lazar M. Kaganovich seemed to be missing from a Moscow display of Politburo portraits. Fortunately for Kaganovich, the report proved erroneous, thus saving him from quick internment at the hands of American foreign affairs experts.

On the other hand, another Politburo member gave evidence that there was no mistake in the recent picture showing him at Stalin's left elbow. According to Russia's photographic protocol, this makes the gentleman—

Georgi M. Malenkov—the No. 3 man in the Soviet Union.

Malenkov spoke out the other day in tones of authority that seem to go with his increased stature. And because he occupies that No. 3 place at the Stalin elbow, we have to pay attention to what he said.

He declared that any new world war "will be the grave, not only for individual capitalist states, but for the whole of world capitalism." Malenkov naturally is thinking largely of the United States when he talks about capitalism.

WORLD EMPIRE

America has a plan, he said, to create a world empire, to make the rest of the globe a U.S. colony. The nation is being driven to seek this goal by frenzied "warmongers" who see it tottering on the edge of depression.

Now all that is a familiar Russian refrain. It represents wishful thinking of a sort we've been getting from Moscow for a long time. Americans may find greater interest in other Malenkov statements. For example, he said never before had Russia's frontiers been "so just and well arranged." If there is the slightest grain of sincerity in that comment, then it doesn't sound as if the Soviet Union were preparing to go bursting over its neighbors' borders—for the moment at least.

Malenkov asserted, as have his countrymen many times, that Russia doesn't want war and is doing all it can to prevent it. "The peace policy of the Soviet Union is the very basis of the Soviet system," he said.

TALK PEACE

Of course, nations bent on aggression nearly always talk peace right up to moment when they launch their attack. The United States government is wisely skeptical of what might turn out to be just window dressing for war preparations.

On the other hand, that country knows it can never overlook the possibility that the Russians actually mean what they are saying when they shout peace.

The Inevitable Price Of Bread

By JOSEPH LISTER RUTLEDGE.

IT IS difficult to argue against social measures without appearing to be a selfish reactionary. Social security has become the battle-cry of our times. Politicians and public alike have championed it as a forward and necessary way of thought. But does imposed security represent an unqualified good? That was a question posed by a business friend of mine in a public address.

LEVELLING UP

A planned economy, he argued, included everything but economy. Socialism and communism, the ultimate end of such comprehensive planning, accomplished nothing but a steady "levelling down." Only enterprise, with its emphasis on initiative and incentive, its hope of reward created a world that "levelled up."

But levelling up is not a practice of governments. This is not due to any lack of good intention. It is merely that, to meet unlimited demands, whether for social or other services, it has nothing to satisfy them that it does not first extract from the people. It is spending people's money, not government money. A still more serious fact is that it cannot even distribute all that it collects. It must create an ever-enlarging bureaucracy to distribute these benefits. So it imposes a political brokerage on the dollars we have earmarked for social services.

But, forgetting this drain at the source, there are other drains that are more serious. People will not be as careful of money for which they have not toiled, nor will they use easy money as wisely. There then go thrift and prudence, which are among the greatest of our civil virtues. There also goes the stabilizing belief that the "take-out" of benefits should bear some relation to the "put-in" of effort or enthusiasm or care for the present and the future.

Free money, free service, free security put everyone on a parity. That's what we are asking. But is it all benefit? Is it wise to make equal the man who saves for the future and the man who spends as he goes; the man who abuses his health, and the man who conserves it; the man who plans and saves for his family, and the man who says "someone will look after them"? This theory of equality of pay for unequal effort is undermining the solid, creative virtues of forethought and daring and thrift and independence that made this and every great country.

SOLID VIRTUES

Ultimately the thoughtful who look to their own future will grow too weary or too few to support the lazy, the thoughtless and the improvident. Ultimately, whatever politicians may say, we must hope to get back to the solid virtues of, broadly speaking, learn again to depend on ourselves. This is not a doctrine of selfishness or inhumanity. It is the obligation of living, a doctrine as old as time. In the sweat of a man's face shall he eat his bread.

GLOBAL SURVEY

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press News Analyst

WHEN you've sifted those 17,000 words of charges hurled at Russia in the United Nations by Nationalist China, you will find that the nub of the controversy really is control of Manchuria.

The Chinese allegations are grave. The Soviet union is accused of violating the Sino-Russian treaty of 1945 which the Chinese Nationalists maintain committed the Soviet Union to support only the Nationalist regime as the central government of China. The incident further maintains that Moscow agreed Manchuria was a part of China.

With this as a premise the Chinese delegation at Lake Success accuses Russia of giving economic and military aid to the Chinese Communists, and of obstructing the Chinese Nationalist government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in its efforts to re-establish its authority in Manchuria.

And pepper for this already-hot dish is added in the allegation that Russian troops committed hundreds of atrocities in Manchuria. These are specified, NO PARALLEL.

What is it that the Chinese really want? Are they seeking the expulsion of Russia from the peace organization, as happened in 1939 when the League of Nations evicted her for invading little Finland?

No, Nationalist China apparently isn't after sanctions against Moscow. What she seeks is a moral judgment. She wants the U.N. to confirm her charge that the Soviet is guilty of violating that Sino-Russian treaty. She wants the U.N. members to refrain from establishing diplomatic relations with the Chinese Communist regime at Peking under Gen. Mao Tse-tung.

And what good will that do the Chinese Nationalists at this late stage, when the Chinese Communist armies have overrun most of China? What the Nationalists have in mind is this:

While the Red armies have captured a large portion of China, Chiang Kai-shek's forces still retain a grip on considerable territory in the southwest and he also has created a powerful military position on the big island of Formosa which he holds off the southeast coast.

Chiang is well aware that it's one thing to over-run the country with troops. And another to establish a government which can govern close to 500,000,000 impoverished peasants and rehabilitate the vast country. That is a task which calls for mountainous help from the outside world—mainly from the western powers. If that help isn't forthcoming, the chances are that any regime—Communist or Nationalist—will eventually fail.

ONE CHANCE

So, if a majority of the U.N. membership, including the western powers, should condemn Russia and agree not to recognize the Chinese Communist regime, the Chinese Nationalists might have a chance to make a comeback. That is, they might have a chance if their rights in Manchuria were restored so that they could take advantage of the great resources of that country.

This impels one to ask what the chances are of Russia withdrawing from Manchuria. I doubt if any neutral observers would want to bet that Moscow would make such a move. I doubt equally whether Nationalist China really expects it.

Windsor Star

APPETITE GUIDES

Ottawa Citizen

Speaking before the Lions Club here, Dr. George Wood Clapp, a dental specialist from New York, said many interesting things, perhaps the most interesting being that people should forget all about the chemical contents of food. To the layman, such information is often incomplete and confusing. A free interpretation of his advice would seem to be that a person should eat what he likes and as much as he likes. There is an old saying that a man at 40 is either a fool or his own doctor, meaning that by that time he should have found out what is good for him and what isn't.

Contracts Totalling $2,000,000 Awarded For P.G.E. Steel

Award of contracts for the providing of $2,000,000 worth of steel for the Pacific Great Eastern Railway extension from Quesnel to Prince George was announced Saturday by Premier Byron Johnson.

A United Kingdom company, British Iron and Steel Corporation Ltd., won the $1,822,452 contract to supply rails, angle bars and tie plates. The contract covers 16,456 tons of 85-pound rails at a cost of $1,546,964; 671 tons of angle bars at a cost of $84,633 and 1,609.4 tons of tie plates at a cost of $190,955.

British Iron and Steel Corporation's tender was the lowest, Mr. Johnson said.

The second contract for supplying track bolts, spikes and spring washers went to Vancouver Rolling Mills Ltd. for $106,115. This contract covers 94.6 tons of track bolts, 602.8 tons of spikes and 125,500 spring washers.

The Vancouver company's bid was slightly higher than the lowest tender but was accepted to encourage local industry and provide employment, the Premier said.

The preparation of the right of way on which the rails will be laid has been under way for some months and at last reports good progress was being made. The over-all cost of the 83-mile extension of the provincially-owned railway has been estimated at $10,000,000.

Conciliation Officers Named In Disputes Involving 645

Appointment of conciliation officers to assist in negotiations involving six mainland employers and 645 workers was announced Saturday by Labor Relations Board.

R. Fogle will assist B.C. Sugar Refining Co., and Industrial Union of Sugar Workers Local 517, representing 500 employees in negotiations involving the union's request for check-off, maintenance of membership, double time for Sunday work, longer rest periods, increased wages and vacations and certain seniority provisions.

R. G. Clements has been named conciliation officer for a dispute between United Steel Workers of America Local 3229, and West-Steel Products Ltd. The dispute involving 95 workers is over the union's demands for wage increases, payment for nine statutory holidays, vacation plan and group insurance and medical insurance plan.

J. W. Muirhead will assist three Vancouver trucking firms and 40 employees in negotiations.

Mr. Clements will also act as conciliation officer in a dispute between Westminster Boiler and Tank Co., New Westminster, and United Steel Workers of America Local 3495. The dispute involves the union's request for payment for nine statutory holidays, two weeks' vacation after five or more years' service, a general wage increase and greater union security.

No Pay-off On War Song For Writer

LONDON (CP) — E. C. H. Rowlands, 65-year-old movie theatre manager, never made a penny out of his song, "Mademoiselle from Armentieres," sung by Canadian, British and Allied soldiers in two world wars.

"That is because I foolishly did not copyright the song," Rowlands said. "I knocked it off on the spur of the moment to entertain troops in 1915 and it became one of the biggest song hits of all time."

"I wrote only eight verses. Since then about 150 have been added by others."

Depth Charge Firing Practice Tuesday

Units of the Royal Canadian Navy will carry out depth charge firing practice west of Swiftsure Bank light vessel, west coast of Vancouver Island, during daylight hours of next Tuesday, according to a notice issued by T. E. Morrison, agent for the Department of Transport in Victoria.

Mr. Morrison also advised the Rosenfeld Reef buoy, off East Point, Saturna Island, is reported missing; that the Maple Spit spar buoy, Baynes Sound, has been replaced, and that a buoy is adrift approximately five miles south of Point Gray.

Alberta To Share In Boundary Survey

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta government has agreed to participate in a survey of the Alberta-B.C. boundary. North of Peace River, there are approximately 173 miles which have not been surveyed.

J. H. Holloway, director of surveys, will be the Alberta member of a new joint survey committee. The Surveyor-General of B.C. also will be a member, along with a federal government representative.

Briton's Income Tax Inspectors Work Harder Than Before War

LONDON (CP)—It takes a man three years to learn how to spot an income tax evasion when he sees one.

That's how complicated British taxation has become.

Glenvil Hall, financial secretary to the treasury, confessed he doesn't understand it himself.

The other day he paid £50 ($155) too much on his own tax.

Hall gave the House of Commons a forlorn account of how difficult it is to catch those who cheat on their returns.

"The real reason for evasion is the shortage of inspectors," he said. "Before the war there were 1,700 inspectors. Now, with more work there are only 1,430."

"Each inspector requires at least three years' basic training."

Hall was replying to Douglas Houghton, Labor member of Soverby and former radio adviser on taxation. Houghton said a lot of people are getting away with evasions.

"There are those who slip through by making incorrect returns," he said. "They include one-man and family businesses, shopkeepers, ice cream vendors, fish-and-chips shops, garage proprietors, boarding houses, chimney sweeps and window cleaners."

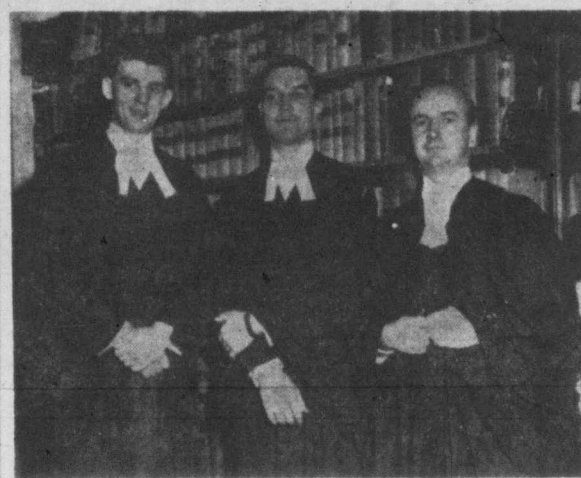

People had various tricks, he said. Some had double bank accounts and resorted to cash transactions instead of putting business operations through their books. Some charged personal staffs to business account and others made false claims that they were employing their wives at a wage.

Britain was the most heavily taxed country in the world, with taxation at 9s. ($1.40) in the pound, but the amount going to the treasury wasn't much more than it used to be, Houghton said.

There were reports that evasion involved about £100,000,000 a year.

Hall said taxation officials aren't sure how much cheating is going on. But he said the experts are convinced the amount lost isn't anything like £100,000,000.

The pro-government newspaper Daily Mirror, commenting on the debate, called on Britons to "shun" people they know to be defaulting on income tax.

Also called were George D. Scott, Burnaby, and Herbert A. Ivens, Vancouver. W. C. Moresby, K.C., introduced the five young men.

The DOCTOR Says:

STIFF ARTERIES ARE DIFFICULT TO DEAL WITH—MAKE THE BEST OF IT
By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

The arteries which carry blood from the heart to all parts of the body gradually become less elastic with increasing years. Although this process starts early it is unusual to have any symptoms from this cause until the later years of life.

The increased hardness of the arteries, or arteriosclerosis, which lessens the flow of blood is likely to be so gradual that there is no way of detecting it until it has become quite advanced. The arteries do not become hardened at the same rate of speed in one part of the body that they do in another. For example, the walls of the arteries in the legs may become thick, hard, and inelastic while those supplying the kidneys or the arms are still normal and soft.

Deposits of calcium in the walls of the blood vessels is the principal thing responsible for hardening of the arteries. Why calcium should be deposited in the arteries, why it should be deposited faster in some arteries than in others, and why it should come earlier in some people than in others, no one yet knows.

BLOOD SUPPLY DECREASED

The symptoms from arteriosclerosis depend on what arteries are affected and to what degree they are injured by the thickening and the deposit of calcium. When the amount of blood flowing through a hardened artery is greatly decreased, there will not be enough blood to supply the needs of some parts of the body.

The treatment of hardening of the arteries depends on which blood vessels are involved and how seriously they are affected. There is no diet which will prevent hardening of the arteries or any which will dissolve out the calcium deposits already formed. The proper amount of rest and whatever local measures are indicated by the arteries involved is about all that can be done.

Question: Will beer cause people to become fat?
Answer: Beer contains a good many calories which are turned into fat by the human body. Therefore, the drinking of beer added to the ordinary diet will produce fatness.

Alberta Farmer Named Oat King

CHICAGO (CP)—Sydney H. Pawlowski of Spedden, Alta., Sunday was named oat king at the Grain and Hay Show held in conjunction with the International Livestock Exposition here. Pawlowski, showing a Victory variety sample weighing 48.2 pounds a bushel, gave Canada the oats grand championship for the 10th straight time. United States growers have won the prize only eight times since 1919. Mac Gibbons of Adamston, Ont., was named alfalfa champion. Reserve spot went to E. Leganieri of Rosemary, Alta.

Many Old Superstitions Survive In Newfoundland

LEADING TICKLES, Nfld. (CP)—Although Newfoundlanders hate to admit it, they are a superstitious lot.

The fisherman's trade brings him into constant contact with the elements, and people the world over who are constantly in contact with natural phenomena are prone to superstition.

But it is no simple bad luck-good luck symbol for the fishermen of Newfoundland. Of course, they'll wear trinkets to guard them from the devil, little cloth figures dangling from their boat engines and the like, but the stronger superstitions of Newfoundland can prevent accidents, pick a husband, provide fresh fish, prevent sickness and many other things.

BURY DOGS

In the more remote parts of Labrador, the Eskimos go even farther than that. If a child dies, a live dog is buried with it, the dog to act as the child's guide to the other world. As the Eskimos say, "a dog can find his way anywhere."

In most Newfoundland outposts, there is no plumbing and water is drawn from a well in the back yard. Some fishermen's wives would not stop even their bitterest enemies drawing water from the well, for this would put a curse on themselves or on some member of their families.

The curse is that the person affected will die away from home, without anyone to bring a drink of water.

This superstition and others were brought here by the early settlers and have been passed from father to son ever since.

A fisherman prefers not to stand alone on a crossroads after midnight, and he'll never sit alone on the bank of a brook or river. He will never pass his mate a splitting knife without taking a small coin in exchange, because the sharp edge would cut through the bonds of their friendship.

The finbone of a haddock, if cut out while the fish is still alive, will prevent toothache and rheumatism. The first snowfall in May is a sure cure for sore eyes. Any girl named Mary has the power to cure lumbago if the sufferer lies down on the floor and allows her to walk across his back.

Pass your baby through the fork of a rowan tree and he will be immune from all infantile diseases.

Fadling Re-elected President Of I.W.A.

PORTLAND (AP)—James E. Fadling was re-elected for a third term as president of the International Woodworkers of America (I.W.A.) at an announcement of union-wide mail ballot returns said Sunday.

Fadling's victory was shared by most of the executive officers up for re-election. Al Hartung, first vice-president; Carl R. Wynn, secretary-treasurer, and Herb Irving, trustee, were also re-elected.

Bill Botkin, Aberdeen, Wash., lost to John Hawkins, Montgomery, Alabama, for the second vice-presidency.

Five proposed union constitutional amendments also were approved. One would curb insurrections such as occurred when the British Columbia district pulled out. The amendment gives the union's international executive board power to appoint an administrator to take over and manage funds and properties of any district council, local union or other subordinate unit that might attempt to secede from the international organization.

$1,000,000 Damage In Brockville Fire

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Losses are estimated at more than $1,000,000 following a fire that raged through a downtown business block here and destroyed four stores and damaged six others.

About 100 persons living in apartments over the stores were evacuated. There were no reports of injuries.

The fire started just before Saturday midnight in Smart's Hardware Store, near the west end of the main street block, and was brought under control three hours later by firemen from six different fire departments. Firemen still poured water on the smoldering structures Sunday as a precautionary measure.

The Brockville fire department was aided by men from the Royal Canadian Regiment at the Brockville military camp, from Prescott, Smith's Falls and Athens fire departments, and from Ogdensburg, N.Y., across the St. Lawrence River.

31-Ounce Baby Dies

VANCOUVER (CP)—A tiny baby girl who weighed only 31 ounces when born last Thursday, died in the Vancouver General Hospital Sunday.

Britain's Medical Colleges Crowded

LONDON (Reuters)—Thousands of young men and women who wish to become doctors are being told there is no room for them in the medical schools of the British universities—although the country is in urgent need of more doctors.

This difficult situation arises partly from the new national health service, now in its second year.

Another factor believed to have led many young people to turn to the medical profession as a career is the increased number of scholarships and grants now available.

The high cost of a medical training, a five-year course normally costing a student between £1,700 and £2,000 ($5,270 and $6,200) in the past made it almost impossible for any to enter except those whose parents had

Aid For Coventry

COVENTRY, Eng. (Reuter)—Emergency food supplies were poured into the midland industrial city of Coventry during the week-end to replace huge stocks destroyed in a big warehouse fire Friday night.

Damage estimated at £250,000 ($775,000) was done by the blaze, largest since the German fire raids in 1940-41.

considerable means. The introduction of financial assistance by the state has now opened the door to many others.

Many hospital training schools were damaged during the war and that, together with a natural desire by the authorities to take as many students as possible, has led to an accommodation problem. The authorities are reluctant to tax accommodation too severely, fearing overcrowded classrooms might lead to a lowering in the standard of tuition.

City Newspaperman Claims Bride

A wedding of interest both in Victoria and Ottawa, home of the groom's father, was solemnized in St. Matthias Church, Saturday afternoon, when Humphrey Davy, city newspaperman, claimed for his bride, Margaret Constance Barnes, S.R.N.

The bronze and gold tones of the lovely gowns of the bride and her entourage and in the floral setting, of the charming afternoon ceremony.

Bishop Harold E. Sexton read the nuptial vows for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Dalzell, 850 Somenos Street, and the son of W. H. Davy of Ottawa and the late Mrs. Davy. A profusion of bronze, yellow and gold chrysanthemums were artistically arranged in the church by Mrs. D. D. McTavish.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's delicate coloring was enhanced by the copper satin floor-length gown, with its deep square neckline, small stand-up collar, full-gathered skirt and swathed waistline. A dainty Juliet cap of feathers with shoes and lace mitts to match completed her ensemble. She wore an amber and gold necklace and carried a cascade bouquet of golden yellow "mums" and Johanna Hill roses.

The attendants, Miss Joyce Whitehead, bridesmaid and Mrs. Frank S. Hatcher, matron of honor, wore gowns of green with taffeta peplum waists to complement the copper tones of the bridal gown. Their Juliet caps were of black and silver. French lace over green and their mitts black and silver lace. They carried matching bouquets of copper "mums."

Little Wendy Dalzell, niece of the bride was junior bridesmaid in a floor-length taffeta frock of Autumn yellow with matching French flower bandeau. In her nosegay were bronze and yellow baby "mums."

Roy Thorsen was the groomsmen. Tom G. Dalzell, brother of the bride, Rodney Williamson, cousin of the groom and Frank Hatcher, were ushers.

During the signing of the register Lawton Partington played Schumann's "Dedication."

Dr. D. M. Baillie proposed the toast at a reception which followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Higgs, 1186 Monterey Avenue, friends of the bride's family. Autumn-toned chrysanthemums were placed throughout the reception rooms and the newlyweds received the guests in the bay-window flanked by tall baskets of flowers.

Mother of the bride, wearing a midnight blue crepe afternoon frock and an off-the-face fur felt hat and Mrs. Richard F. Davy, aunt of the groom, in grey crepe with hat en tone, assisted in receiving guests. Both wore corsage bouquets of rosebuds.

A three-tier square wedding cake made by the bride's mother centred the table which was covered with a hand-embroidered cloth. Graduated cream candles in silver holders flanked the cake.

For a honeymoon to an unannounced destination, the bride selected a dark brown Barathea suit with off-the-face cocoa imported velour hat, a work muskrat coat and accessories en tone. On their return the young couple will live in Victoria.

Good Citizenship First Duty, B. & P. W. Club Members Told

"Our first duty as members of our national federation is to be good citizens," Mrs. Margaret Campbell, second vice-president, National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, told more than 60 members of the Victoria club Saturday evening.

"That means taking a keen interest in everything that affects the well-being of our country," she continued.

"Canada has become a major spoke in the western wheel of civilization and with it has come added responsibility for each and every one of us."

Mrs. Campbell, speaking to the Victoria club at its national night meeting, gave a comprehensive picture of the growth of the Canadian Federation of clubs from 1929, when there were only 12 clubs in Canada, to the present day when there are over 115 clubs with a membership of more than 5,000.

Outstanding events in the 20-year growth were highlighted by the names of national presidents from Miss Dorothy Heineker of Montreal, the first national president, to Miss Ruth MacGill of Regina, now in office, and including the name of Miss Margaret Clay, Victoria, who was national president from 1939 to 1941.

Miss Marjorie Press, Victoria president, welcomed guests to the meeting and gave an exemplification of the club emblem. Vocal solos were given by Miss Madonna McCabe, accompanied by Mrs. S. Kenaugh.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. M. McClement, assisted by Mrs. Lily Nicholls, Misses Lily Henderson and Helen Cruickshank.

Find Tug Wreckage Ashore

B. Patterson, Sea View Road, examines the overturned lifeboat which brought safely to shore Gerry Anderson, 17-year-old seaman, sole survivor of the sunken tug George McGregor.

Pieces of wreckage from the Victoria Tug Co.'s tugboat George McGregor, which sank off Trial Island Saturday with the loss of six lives, have been washed ashore but there is, as yet, no sign of the bodies of the missing crewmen.

Lying on a Ten Mile Point beach is the lifeboat which drifted in to save the life of 17-year-old Gerry Anderson, sole surviving crew member of the foundered tug. Young Anderson clung to the lifeboat for nearly three hours before it washed up on shore.

Suffering from cold, exposure and shock, he was found by F.

J. Darimont, 2805 Seaview Road, who took the seaman into his home and telephoned tug company officials. One of Anderson's legs was blistered from constant rubbing on the hull of the overturned lifeboat as he alternately knelt and stood while paddling in an effort to reach shore.

Other gear from the tug was discovered at various points along the shore.

Constable Charles Bates, Oak Bay police, reported today a section of deck grating and what seemed to be a piece of guard rail was washed up on Oak Bay beaches. A water keg was recovered in the Spoon Bay area.

Meanwhile a lookout is being kept along the shoreline for any sign of the bodies of the six crewmen who perished.

Organized sea-air search by vessels from Island Tug and Barge and the Royal Canadian Navy, and planes from the R.C. A.F. Air-Sea Rescue Service at Vancouver and Westinghouse Airways in Victoria was called off late Saturday after hours of fruitless sweeps over the dull, grey, troubled waters of the area where the tug went down.

National Trade Mark Bill Passed; M.P.'s To Debate Rents

OTTAWA (CP)—Its attendance reduced by the combination of the session's first sitting and a Dominion football final in Toronto, the Commons struggled through a mass of legislation Saturday in a drive for pro-rogation.

Voting down C.C.F. opposition, it gave final approval to a bill establishing a national trade mark and guaranteeing standards for products using the trade mark.

It got its first look at bills to eliminate two government departments and distribute their functions among three new departments.

It also:

1. Heard Prime Minister St. Laurent consent to a debate tonight on the government's rent control policy.

2. Gave final approval to a relatively minor bill extending the Export-Import Act—providing controls on some strategic commodities—until July, 1951.

LEFT RADIOS
The members reluctantly left their radios—and the Grey Cup football game—to trickle into the chamber for the afternoon sitting. A few minutes after the House opening, only some 30 members out of a possible 262 had arrived. A few minutes later, many others turned up.

The Commons approved the trade-mark bill—already passed by the Senate—after rejecting a C.C.F. amendment requiring users of the mark—Canada Standard or "C.S."—to meet certain wage standards.

The bill provides for voluntary use of the trade mark and for accurate labelling of articles for sale.

The rentals question came up when Mr. St. Laurent tabled an order-in-council asking the Supreme Court to rule on the validity of federal rent controls.

John Diefenbaker (P.C.-Lake Centre, Sask.) had objected to the terms of the order Friday and asked for the debate.

Mr. St. Laurent said rent controls could be discussed when Prices Board estimates come before the House tonight.

With practically no opposition in sight, the House gave first reading to three separate bills to set up three new government departments—citizenship and immigration, mines and technical surveys and resources and development. They will replace the present reconstruction and supply and mines resources departments.

The Prime Minister said it won't necessarily involve an immediate addition to his 21-member cabinet.

Two Firemen Injured In Montreal Blaze

MONTREAL (CP)—Two firemen were injured when the roof and rear brick wall of a warehouse collapsed during a two-alarm fire on Notre Dame Street Sunday night.

The blaze, of unknown origin, was brought in check in an hour. The inside of the four-story structure was gutted with only three sides of the wall remaining up. Damage is said to exceed $250,000.

Foreign Ministers Find Conference In Moscow Long And Frustrating

Installment No. 21

The Moscow Conference of Foreign Ministers that opened on March 10, 1947, is remembered for its failures rather than for its accomplishments. I think of it as a very successful failure. This meeting of the foreign ministers, in spite of all the frustrations it produced, resulted in clarifying beyond any possibility of misinterpretation the Soviet attitude toward Germany and Austria, and this in turn resulted in unifying the policies of France, Britain and the United States to an extent that otherwise might have been impossible.

Early in January, we began the preparations for receiving our delegation and facilitating their work. While the administrative section of the embassy concerned itself with housing, food and transportation, the Chancery officers prepared our own advance estimate of the course the conversations would take and the line of action we might expect from the Soviet representatives. This estimate, which was sent to the Secretary of State early in January, is worth reading in the light of subsequent events.

"Current experience in Austria should be proof enough of Soviet ability to neutralize the effectiveness of a central government in similar circumstances, and it must be assumed that the Kremlin would endeavor to bring about a similar situation in Germany following the establishment of a central administration there. Such a central administration will no doubt be sought by the Soviet Union. Its purpose will be to restrain the rehabilitation of the Western zones and to preclude the development of federalism, which to the Kremlin is an acceptable form of government only when bound by the rigid framework of its own authoritative one-party machine.

"In this respect, I realize now that French fears of centralization were not entirely unfounded. The Russians will claim all the privileges of the Anglo-American concept of democracy in the Western zones, since this is the most favorable climate for the growth of their organizations above and below ground, while at the same time suppressing these privileges in their own zone.

"Reparations will play a major role in the Soviet demands, both to meet a very great economic need here and to retard as far as possible the growth of a healthy economy in the Western zones. The question of the Ruhr has a similar dual significance of high import. Yet, great as is the importance of German economic questions, we believe that once having gotten its teeth into Germany, the Kremlin, as it has always done in the past, will give precedence to power, political and ideological considerations.

UNIFICATION OPPOSED

"Moscow and foreign Communist reaction to the economic unification of the United States and British zones in Germany has been extreme. This unification has been presented, with all the anti-Soviet implication such a line of argument can produce, as a direct violation of the Potsdam agreement, designed to promote federalism and to facilitate the intervention of monopoly capital into Western Germany, thus destroying the economic and political unity of the country. It is to be expected that, following its old practice of loudly charging its opponents with the very sins it is in the process of committing itself, the Kremlin will continue to use Potsdam against the West and in support of its own objectives. It will blame us for attempting to split Germany in two, whereas, in reality, the growing separation in that country is an inescapable result of Soviet totalitarian economic and political treatment of its own zone.

"The issue, then, is Germany and with it, the future of Europe.

"It seems inevitable to me that we must be prepared if necessary to accept further temporary separation of the Eastern and Western zones of Germany, rather than a hollow unification which in fact simply opens the door to the accomplishment of Soviet purposes in Germany as a whole. "For us there can only be one policy—we must promote and support in word and deed all truly democratic and progressive forces in our zone. At the same time, we must defend them from infiltration and from subversion by totalitarian machinations from the east. I use the words 'support' and 'defend' in the active sense, as distinguished from the moral support and defense we have so far provided.

"For all these reasons, the impending Conference of Foreign Ministers, as seen from here, promises to be a long and tedious struggle. The Russians will be at home, and patience for them will the Soviet Foreign Office announced that a maximum of 20 reporters and broadcasters from each nation would be admitted. Telegrams from the State Department and protests from the press began to pour into the embassy, and I went to see Mr. Vishinsky to do what I could.

With unflinching courtesy, he maintained his position, reluctantly granting permission for one reporter and the another, taking so long to do it that finally the State Department was as glad as I to compromise for an additional 16. Most of the 36 radio and press representatives were top-flight representatives of their newspapers and radio networks, and both the conference and Moscow were covered very ably for this brief period of non-censorship.

On March 8, the delegations began to arrive. M. Bevin and M. Bidault, both of whom I knew, came by train. I met them both at the railroad station, together with all the other Chiefs of Mission in Moscow, as is customary when the Foreign Minister or the Chief of State of one of the great powers makes an official visit to a foreign capital.

SPECULATION ON MARSHALL

Secretary Marshall arrived by plane on March 9. The big C-54 touched down on the Moscow Central Airport at 3.30 p.m. In the frosty wind and clear sunlight of a Russian early spring day, General Marshall looked very fit, and his quiet dignity made an immediate impression as I introduced him to Mr. Vishinsky and to the foreign ambassadors. Moscow's diplomats for some time had been speculating on how the Secretary of State, without previous experience in international conferences, would be able to deal with what one of them called "this group of tough, Middle-Eastern bazaar traders."

I had no misgivings whatever. I had seen General Marshall under all conditions of stress and strain, and I had never seen him fail eventually to dominate every gathering by the sheer force of his integrity, honesty and dignified simplicity. Moreover, his whole service had been a preparatory course for high-level negotiations. I know that he would say little until he had the situation and all the facts well in hand and that he would make no mistakes. When necessary, he is patient personified, and no one ever takes liberties with him.

My pleasure in greeting him was tempered by his obvious lack of admiration for my diplomatic "bowler" hat, purchased in Paris in a moment of desperation when I found I could not convert by excess French currency into dollars, and worn for the first time in his honor. When later I saw it in a photograph, I understood his reaction.

The following morning, March 10, the conference opened in the Hall of Aviation Industry, a handsome building that stands on the site formerly occupied by Czarist days by the famous Yar restaurant.

This haunt of the wild and wealthy young nobility was immortalized in a very old Russian ballad, which goes:

"Sweetheart, don't go to the Yar,
"Don't throw your money away.
"Better to buy a guitar,
"And play on it all of the day."

THEME SONG FOR SESSIONS

With a few changes, I thought this might well have served as a theme song for the 44 protracted and frustrating sessions that followed. The first action of the conference was definitive enough, however, as it put a period to the brutal and bloody history of the Prussian state, by an agreement of the four ministers to liquidate this core of German militarism. This took place so quickly that it left most of us rather breathless. Drew Middleton, then The New York Times Moscow correspondent, wrote, with tongue slightly in cheek: "This erasure in a single minute of a state that for years has dominated Central Europe, appears to be a happy augury for the conference of the powers that battered the Third Reich to its knees."

LIMITATIONS ON PRESS

My only real difficulty during this preparatory period had to do with the number of American correspondents who would be admitted to Moscow to cover the conference. I was present at the London conference, when the decision was taken to hold the next Foreign Ministers' meeting in Moscow. At that time, the question of press representatives and censorship was raised, and Mr. Molotov said that there would be no restrictions imposed on correspondents.

The Americans and others had interpreted this to mean that there would be no restriction on the number of correspondents who could attend, as well as no censorship of what they wrote. Quite naturally, almost every paper in the United States wanted to utilize this opportunity to send a correspondent to Russia. It was with some difficulty that the State Department's press section in Washington reduced the list to about 200, I believe, and there were roars of indignation and charges of breach of faith when

Whether the Soviet Union was to win its demands for reparations from current production to satisfy its claim for overall reparations totaling $10,000,000,000 from Germany.

The extent to which Allied occupation forces in Germany could be reduced.

Which states would participate in a peace conference to draft the German peace treaty.

The definition of "German assets" in Austria, an important issue that would determine the amount of property in Eastern Austria that would remain in Soviet possession.

Yugoslavia's claim for a portion of Austrian territory in the province of Carinthia.

NO MAJOR AGREEMENT

While there were agreements on many minor points discussed by the foreign ministers and their deputies, there was no substantive agreement on any of the major issues.

Indicative of the way things went was the dialogue on March 28—at the 16th meeting—between Mr. Bevin and M. Bidault:

"Where are we?" Mr. Bevin asked.

"God knows," M. Bidault replied.

"I didn't know he was a member of the Council of Foreign Ministers," Mr. Bevin rejoined.

And, on April 7, after the council had been in session for nearly a month, Mr. Bevin summed up its accomplishments thus: "There doesn't appear to be any agreement anywhere."

A few minutes later, when the ministers were wrangling over procedure and the question of which item was to precede another on the agenda for the following day, the disgraced British Foreign Secretary declared that, as nothing had been accomplished in four weeks, "I don't care what you take up tomorrow."

With the censorship bars down, and a considerable number of newspapermen on hand, the foreign ministers' conference was better reported than any other spot news story during the period I was in Moscow. The American and other delegation regularly briefed their correspondents on developments at each meeting, with the exception of the rare closed-door informal meetings on which only brief uninformative communiques were issued.

There were dramatic incidents behind the scenes that highlighted far more clearly the clash of policies, the trends of thought and the growing disillusionment that marked what Foreign Secretary Bevin characterized as probably the most important meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers has held. One of these occurred at Spaso House during the formal dinner given by Secretary Marshall for the other conferees.

The conference that day had climaxed a series of discussions on the regime for the Saar, an area vital to the industry of France, as it is a major source of French coal supply. M. Bidault had proposed the detachment of the Saar from Germany and an economic and monetary union between France and the Saar as the best means of organizing for the future the relationship between the two areas. The United States and the United Kingdom, after considerable discussion and some modification, had come to support the French proposal. Molotov had played with it for days, like a cat with a mouse. No matter how he was pressed, he would never take a stand either for or against the French proposal. He obviously was trying to hold back his answer for use as a trading point to obtain French agreement for Soviet participation in the control of the Ruhr, the great industrial area of Germany.

M. Bidault must have been greatly tempted, for the future of the Saar was a matter of genuine concern to every Frenchman. Finally, on April 10, M. Bidault pressed for a decision. Mr. Bevin and Secretary Marshall voted to accept the French proposal. Mr. Molotov countered by asking for a reply on the Soviet proposal on the Ruhr. M. Bidault said that he was ready to discuss the Ruhr but that the question of the Saar was now before the council and a decision had been asked for. Molotov replied coldly that he had no further remarks to make. There was a rejection of the French proposals, as in the absence of unanimity they went by default, and it was a bitter pill for the French delegation to swallow.

During the dinner that evening, M. Bidault ate nothing, and, although he joined in the general conversation with great courtesy and self-possession, it was obvious that he felt deeply the rebuff of the afternoon. When his time came to propose a toast, he did not, like the others, make the stereotyped remarks about friendship and the future, but, raising his glass, he said, crisply, that he drank "to those of us here who love freedom." As both Molotov and Vishinsky were well aware of the French statesman's opinion of the Soviet idea of freedom, their exclusion from this toast was clear and unmistakable.

We had minor daily comedies and tragedies within our own delegation. Its members were working 16 and 18 hours a day. They felt keenly the frustrations of the conference. They were tense, and during discussions and drafting meetings, feelings often ran high. I did what I could to pour oil on troubled waters, but it was Mrs. Smith who was most effective in smoothing down "ruffled feathers" and seeing that trays of hot lunch got to those who could not, or would not, take time away from their desks to come to the dining room to eat with their colleagues.

Not that agreements were easy, even on matters on which, in general terms, all Americans are in agreement. It took all of the senior advisers of the delegation about six hours, for example, to agree on the wording of our definition of the term "democracy."

One of our greatest sources of difficulty in dealing with the Soviet Union in the past has been that we naively assumed that the word "democracy" meant the same thing to the Politburo as it did to us. It does not. Lenin wrote much about democracy. In his "Collected Works," the statement appears that "democracy is a state which recognizes the subordination of the minority to the majority; that is, an organization for the systematic use of violence by one class against another; by one section of the population against another."

It was high time to pin down this basic and irreconcilable difference between the Communist idea and our own, as the Kremlin's double-talk about democracy and democratic governments in interpreting previous Big Three compacts had caused enough confusion, misery and suffering.

In the version that he himself revised, Secretary Marshall's statement to the conference on March 14 of what the American people understood democracy to

Children Under 10 Have Most Colds

Canada's 2 1/2 million children under 10 years of age are in for a tough winter season, according to recent surveys made to determine the prevalence of colds. These studies indicate that children in this age group have more colds than any other.

It was also found that the "average" child will have approximately four colds a year.

To reduce the misery caused by these colds, more and more Canadian mothers are turning to Vicks VapoRub. These mothers recognize that Vapo-

Rub will bring quick, comforting relief from the painful distress of colds.

These modern mothers rub Vicks VapoRub on their child's throat, chest and back at bedtime. Even as they apply it, VapoRub's soothing medicinal vapors penetrate deep into congested bronchial tubes. Best of all, VapoRub continues to work for hours, even while the child sleeps. Today, VapoRub is the best-known home remedy for relieving the misery of children's colds.

Australian Airline Operating At Loss

SYDNEY (CP)—The Australian government's internal airline, Trans-Australia Airways, is still losing money. Civil Aviation Minister Arthur Drakeford reported to parliament recently that in the year just ended it had lost $94,886 ($237,215) but had paid to the government in landing fees $159,173. The previous year T.A.A. had lost $296,801.

During the year T.A.A. carried 44,594 passengers and 9,554 tons of freight. It would have carried more but for gasoline restrictions. The air mail contract grant by the government for the year was $400,000.

Against this continued loss Qantas Empire Airways made a net profit for the year ended March 31, 1949, of $79,900.

Of all trees, the poplar, oak, ash and elm appear most liable to be struck by lightning.

Creation Left-Overs May Be Odd, Cosmic Clouds

By THOMAS R. HENRY
Science Editor, N.A.A.

WASHINGTON — Cosmic clouds float around the rotating earth.

They are vast aggregations of infinitesimally minute particles—electrons, protons and nuclei of atoms—which constitute a hitherto unsuspected element of the solar system. Hydrogen nuclei have been detected in them, and they may consist chiefly of this mother gas of all creation.

These clouds may be "smoke puffs from the sun." They may have drifted into the solar system from the far-distant parts of the universe, or they may be something left over from creation. At present, practically everything concerning them is a mystery which scientists of the Carnegie Institution of Washington are trying to clear at the institution's upper atmosphere research station at Derwood, Md.

About the only way of studying them is through a system of radio-pulse probes set up to analyze the bottom layer of the atmosphere, the three-layer electric blanket around the earth which reflects a large band of radio waves and makes all long-range broadcasting possible.

This extremely sensitive apparatus has been assembled to make more than 2,000 pulse probes an hour over a wide range of wave lengths. The minute fractions of seconds required for different wave lengths to be echoed back to earth and the amount which returns give much information which could be acquired in no other way.

FALL FAST

Among the facts gathered this far is that these clouds fall toward the bottom of the ionosphere at a rate of about a mile and a half a second. This gives no indication, however, of the speed with which they may be hurtling through space before they are gathered up by the earth's magnetic field. This may be as great as 40 miles a second.

It is certain, Carnegie scientists say, that such a cloud must consist of approximately equal numbers of positively and negatively charged particles. Otherwise they would blow up. They could not be held together by gravitational attraction.

Some of these clouds may be enormous. Others, there now is reason to believe, may not be more than a few miles in diameter. With the new system of radio probes, it is expected that much will be learned of their frequency and their composition.

Researchers are beginning to associate the lowest layer of the ionosphere with weather on the earth's surface. Observations of this behavior, it is believed, may give the earliest indications of coming weather changes. One comparison is to the surface of a stream flowing over a very rough bottom, the bottom in this case being the turbulent atmosphere directly above the earth's surface where weather phenomena become apparent.

Politicians At Odds Over Living Costs In New Zealand

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—The rise in the cost of living is proving one of the key issues in the campaign for the New Zealand general election to be held Nov. 30.

The Labor government holds that its stabilization policy has controlled prices far more successfully than almost all other countries since 1939. It maintains controls over wages, prices, rents and real estate and pays subsidies to keep down the prices of certain essential commodities. The government states this policy will be maintained except that controls will be relaxed over some commodities where supply makes price checks unnecessary.

But the opposition, the National party, is making the rise in the cost of living a principal point in its campaign.

In its election manifesto, the National party says: "The party is determined to deal effectively with the basic causes of higher living costs, which it attributes to inflation, taxation, lack of incentives, the interference and dictatorial attitude of the state, profit, price and property control, import control, union interference and lack of firm action."

VITAL ISSUE

The issue is likely to be a vital one at the poll. Labor can claim that the people are getting more money than ever before, but against this the opposition is asking voters whether they can buy as much in goods and services as they used to on lower wages.

No interference with the cradle-to-grave social security program is advocated by the National party. The building of this structure is one of the main points in the government's case for continued support. It claims to have "freed New Zealand from want and the fear of want."

Much Criticism Of Call-Up Of 18-Year-Olds In Britain

By WILLIAM BOSS

LONDON (CP)—The "call-up," which channels Britain's 18-year-old youths into the armed services for an 18-months' hitch, is under fire from many quarters.

Newspapers are devoting special articles, soldiers and educationists are writing letters to the editor and politicians are saying it wastes time, money and manpower without ensuring that the services are properly manned.

There is no indication, however, that the Labor party—traditionally anti-conscription—in times of peace—is heeding the criticism and revising its manpower policies.

LESS OBLIGATIONS

Britain, with less foreign commitments than pre-war despite her North Atlantic Pact and Western Union obligations, has more men in uniform than ever before in peacetime—770,000.

Her order of battle disposes throughout the world of 406,000 soldiers, against 197,000 in 1938 when she had garrisons in India, Egypt and the colonial and empire outposts, and two divisions in Palestine. The regular army numbers 184,000, the National Service men 222,000.

Figures for the other services are: Navy, 144,000 regular, 15,000 conscript, and Air Force, 114,000 regular and 91,000 conscript.

One of the key points in Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery's policy, accepted by the British government in 1945 as the basis for its service manning, was "to ensure a small, efficient and properly-equipped regular force which could be available to proceed overseas at short notice in peacetime."

The critics point in answer to the government's difficulties in finding this year a mere 25,000 men for Hongkong and two brigades for Malaya. They say that the regulars were too busy training National Service men to be spared.

They say, too, that the conscripts have been used in such a way throughout the army that if National Service were to end by parliamentary action the British army would collapse.

PLENTY OF TRAINED MEN

As a reserve of trained men, they say, the National Service men are not useful. During the last four years the services have released into civil life 3,207,310 men. Said one: "There are already in this country more trained ex-soldiers in their early and middle 20's than ever before, and far more than the army could absorb within 12 months of the outbreak of a future war."

Rather than abolish conscription, they assert the defence minister should be more selective and take in fewer, using the resulting economies to make life in the regular army more attractive and stimulate thereby its voluntary recruiting.

Each conscript is calculated to cost the country £500 ($1,550) and of his 18 months' service the country gets six from him as a fully-trained soldier.

UNDERTAKER ON CARPET

RHYMNEY, Monmouthshire — The council here has issued an ultimatum to undertakers that if alleged extortionate practices are not stopped it would enter the undertaking business. Complaints had been made that undertakers made no allowance for what people could afford but insisted that a hearse and at least two cars were hired for each funeral.

Canadair Expands Plant To Turn Out High-Speed Planes

By JOHN ALIUS

MONTREAL (BUP) — Canadair Limited today was engaged in a $2,000,000 expansion project preparatory to becoming the only company in Canada turning out jet-planes on a mass-production basis.

With a $30,000,000 contract from the federal government, Canadair was to produce 100 of the famous E-86 jet fighters for the RCAF. They were the world's fastest aircraft.

Officials explained that before the E-86 could go into production, Canadair would have to undergo extensive retooling. The plant was building the Canadair-4, a four-engined commercial transport. The plant would have to be expanded by 213,700 square feet.

LARGEST IN CANADA

When the additional buildings are up, the Canadair plant would have a total covered factory space of 1,663,700 square feet, making it the largest aircraft in the nation.

The E-86, which would be classified as the F-86A Sabre in Canada, was designed by North American Aviation, Inc., in the United States. Canadair would produce the single-seater, 13,715 pound fighter, under a Canadian government agreement with the American company.

The E-86 was a far cry from the huge, 40-passenger, Canadair-4 currently in production. Officials said that the retooling job, expansion of the plant, and training of workers to turn out the 37-foot-long fighter, would take about six months. The Canadair contract called for the first E-86A to be off the lines next August.

SIX GUNS

The E-86 was the jet fighter which established the world speed record of 670.9 miles per hour, at Murock Field, Calif.

The fighter made its record-breaking flight at less than 300 feet above the ground, and fully armed. It carried six guns of .5 calibre.

Its wings sweeping back to a 35 degree angle, and measuring 37 feet from tip to tip, the E-86 was capable of screaming across the sky for almost two hours without refueling. It had a ceiling of 40,000 feet, the company said.

Disputes Involving 3,000 Settled

The Labor Relations Board Saturday formally announced settlement of two labor disputes involving around 3,000 workers.

The board said that a dispute between eight fishing and packing companies in Vancouver and Victoria and the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union representing between 2,000 and 3,000 employees had been settled. The settlement covers cannery workers, both male and female, networkers and reduction plant workers.

R. Forgie, Vancouver conciliator.

tion officer, assisted the parties in reaching settlement.

The second dispute involved 38 sheet metal firms in the Greater Vancouver area and 362 employees represented by the Sheet Metal Workers Union, Local 280. The settlement provides for the wage increase of five cents an hour dated Oct. 1.

R. G. Clements, Vancouver, assisted the parties in the negotiations.

Crocodile Eggs Tried In Omelette

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (CP) — When Professor Frank Debenham, of Cambridge University, was carrying out a survey of the Bangweulu swamp in Northern Rhodesia, one of the things he tried was crocodile egg omelette.

Speaking to the National Affairs Association here, the professor described the omelette as being greenish-yellow in color, but with a distinct egg flavor and reminiscent of the egg powder in Britain during the war.

Contrary to what his cook boys assured him, he neither died nor turned into a crocodile. The omelette was made from about 30 new-laid eggs taken from a nest of about 120 eggs.

Comedy With Music Now At Capitol

Beginning today the Capitol Theatre is featuring Paramount's comedy-with-music "Red, Hot and Blue," which co-stars Betty Hutton and Victor Mature.

The story concerns the efforts of a girl from Ohio to land a job in a Broadway show and the ingenious ideas of her press agent to get her name and picture in the newspapers.

NILES, Mich.—Harold Gledemann dashed into the street to snatch a kitten out of the way of a car. He landed in the hospital with two broken legs and other injuries.

The first motion picture of its kind!

Ancient Roman Gags Still Being Used

Comic Jack Carson is a little startled after the most exhaustive session of reading in his life.

"I have been tracing the history of comedy and you'll probably be surprised to know that basically it hasn't changed in 2,000 years," Jack said.

"Some of the jokes they tell now were being kicked around in the days of the Roman empire," Carson made his disclosure after completing "It's a Great Feeling," Warner's Technicolor satire on life in Hollywood, in which he is co-starred with Dennis Morgan and Doris Day, now at the Royal Theatre.

DOMINION THEATRE
Nina Mae MacKinney, cast in a featured role in "Pinky," currently at the Dominion Theatre, was brought to Hollywood especially for the picture by the Twentieth Century-Fox production chief, who remembered her performance in "Sanders of the River."

ODEON THEATRE
No motion picture in recent years has inspired such a flood of appreciative comment as "Home of the Brave," the daring screen adaptation of Arthur Laurents' Broadway hit, which is now being shown at the Odeon Theatre through United Artists release.

A gripping adventure story of five men—one of them a Negro—who volunteer for a dangerous wartime mission on a Jap-held island in the South Pacific, "Home of the Brave" has won unanimous critical acclaim from important and widely varied sources.

The Stelio Pass is the highest automobile road across the Alps—9,042 feet.

SACRIFICE BIDDING IS OFTEN WORTH WHILE

A trip to New York by any bridge player would not be complete without a visit to the Mayfair Bridge Club. It is operated by Harry J. Fishbein and Mrs. Phyllis Schellenberg. Fishbein is one of the most popular bridge players in the country.

I was over to his club the other night and picked up six hands from different groups and I think you will enjoy them. This, the first hand, brings out the point of sacrifice bidding.

As this is a bidding hand I do not want to justify North's bid, but there are many good players who will risk a light bid, especially in third position. East realized that North's bid could mean little or nothing and rather than double, he wanted to show the real strength of his hand with a bid of two no trump.

When West bid three no trump, North felt his hand justified a sacrifice bid. In other words, a player will overbid even though he knows he will go down. He feels sure he will lose less this way rather than letting his opponents make a game.

The hand today has a good point in play. East cashed the king of clubs and shifted to the four of diamonds. Declarer played low from dummy and West made the mistake of going up with the queen. North won with the king. He immediately returned a diamond and finessed the 10 spot. On the ace of diamonds, declarer discarded a spade.

A spade was played from dummy. The rule says "second hand low," but does not always apply. If West had jumped up with the jack of spades and led a heart the hand would have been down several tricks more, but West carelessly played a low spade. East was forced to win the trick with the king. He returned the fourth diamond.

Now you can see that the declarer can cross-ruff the hand out and the only tricks that East did make were the king of clubs, two heart tricks and the king of spades, setting the hand only one

By PETE SALLAWAY

GIVING all the clubs in the northern division of the Coast League the once-over, Lex Cook, scout of the Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League, was a spectator at the Memorial Arena last week. It was like old home week for Cook as he renewed friendships with several members of the Cougars who played under him last season with the Dallas club of the United States Hockey League. They included Georges Bougie, Tom Rockey, Eddie Mazur, Eddie Marneau and Eddie Dorohoy. Cook also had Larry Thibault as a member of his Cornwall Army club in the Quebec Senior Amateur League back in 1941-42.

WHEN questioned as to how the calibre of hockey in the Coast League stacked up alongside that played in the U.S.H.L., Cook was of the opinion the two circuits are on about a par. "The only difference is in the majority, are a little better balanced," he said. Cook's main interest in the Coast League centres around the San Francisco club in the southern division which is owned outright by Cleveland.

WE HAVE placed a smart hockey club in San Francisco this season but it still isn't drawing. Cook deplored. "The team is leading the southern division and has only lost something like two games at home, yet it can't better much more than 1,200 per game. Of course I realize the San Francisco arena is a terrific handicap. It is nothing much better than a barn, is full of posts, and fans just won't turn out under such an atmosphere."

COOK disclosed that none of the southern division teams are setting any records in the matter of patronage. He expressed the opinion that professional hockey may eventually have to follow the pattern of pro baseball and allow visiting clubs a portion of the gate receipts. Under the present setup each team retains its home gates. "If the visiting teams received only 10 cents on every ticket sold it would give the poorer drawing clubs a better chance to finish on the right side of the ledger. I honestly think hockey will come to such an arrangement in the not too distant future."

VICTORIA'S hockey-minded youngsters had better decide to behave themselves at future Coast League games at the Memorial Arena. General manager Fred Hutchinson stated today the youngsters are in danger of losing their special privileges if they continue to make a nuisance of themselves. "There was a great clamor to do something for the kids and we granted them admission to a section of reserved seats at a nominal charge," Hutchinson said. "Now we find that most of them go to the game for nothing better than to tear around the arena, throw articles on the ice and generally annoy our adult patrons. We are getting so many complaints from the grown-ups that we will have to shut off all privileges to the youngsters unless they learn to behave themselves."

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Theodore Bassett of New York City Sunday landed a 173-pound Allison tuna to claim an Atlantic coast record and possibly a world record on 50-pound line-test class.

First Blood In Grey Cup Final

Virgil Wagner, big Montreal Alouette halfback, crashes over the line for the first touchdown of Alouettes' battle with Calgary Stampede for the Canadian football championship. This major score came early in the first quarter of the big game at Varsity Stadium in Toronto. Stampede players who tried unsuccessfully to stop Wagner are Kwong (23), Matheson (11) and Strode (42). Other Alouettes in on the play are Kries (57), Trawick (86), McCance (50) and Toohy (53). Montreal won, 28 to 15.—(CP Photo)

Nancy Craig Women's Paddle Champ; Ngai Takes Men's Title

Nancy Craig and Eddie Ngai are the singles champions of the Victoria Table Tennis Club.

The three-day 15th annual club tournament which came to a close in the Strathcona Hotel club-rooms Saturday night saw defending champion Miss Craig defeat Val Druce in the women's final, 21-15, 21-16 and 21-17, while Ngai took the men's title with a four-set 21-18, 23-21, 15-21, 21-15 triumph over veteran Will Brown-Cave.

Keith Olson and George Clark captured the men's double title by defeating Rex Jackson and Ray Dawson in the final. Olson then teamed with Val Druce to annex the mixed doubles crown with a straight-set victory over Audrey Wight and club president Bill Tutthill.

Tommy Love won the club handicap championship.

Servicemen Like Mud; Score First Victory

LEAGUE STANDINGS

Servicemen College	1	6	0	2

Finding the muddy, sopping pitch to their liking, the Canadian Services College senior ruggers notched their first victory of the season in seven starts at Macdonald Park Saturday by tripping the second-place Oak Bay Wanderers 6 to 3.

The second game, between the top-placed Victoria College Vikings and J.B.A.A. was postponed. The servicemen, who hadn't had much of a look in six previous league tussles, completely out-manoeuvred the favored Wanderers, who could have moved to within two points of the leading Collegians with a victory.

Losers could only manage to carry the play over the Cadets' 25-yard line three times during the entire contest. Play opened in the mid-field strip, but winners soon began to click and force the play. It wasn't until half an hour had elapsed, however, before they took the lead.

Dan Loomis picked up the oval at the Wanderers' 20-yard line and pushed his way over near the corner to make it 3 to 0. Joe Laudenbach missed the conversion attempt.

The lead was short-lived, however. Shortly before the interval, Irving Young punted ahead and from the scramble, Jack Utting found his way across the Cadet line and the score was tied as the teams entered the second half.

It was Loomis who proved to be the hero for winners. Despite the fact that Services College held a big edge in the play throughout the entire half, they could not find the right combination until six minutes before the final whistle. Loomis ran 35 yards for the deciding score, shaking loose three opponents.

SECOND DIVISION

In a second division tussle, Oak Bay Wanderers made up for their big brothers' defeat, trouncing Victoria College 11 to 3 at Windsor Park.

A try by Jim Burns gave winners a 3 to 0 first-half lead, and Allan Richardson scored what proved to be the winning points early in the second half when he crossed the line. Ray Orchard saved losers from being blanked shortly afterwards, when he skirted over into pay-dirt, but Johnny Johnson put the decision beyond reach on a breakaway, and Burns added the extra points.

SEASON'S WORST DEFEAT

Only the great work of Dertell, who blanked Flyers for the last half of the game, saved Calgary from a worse licking. At that, the defeat was the most one-sided absorbed by Stampede's season.

The veteran goalie made 28 saves while rookie Ray Frederick blocked 12 shots on the Edmonton nets.

The game, a listless affair after the first period, lived up again in the dying minutes when Kilburn, league leader in points and penalties, and Doug Cairns

Esquimalt, Wests Head Senior Soccer League

Fighting back from a 2 to 0 deficit towards the latter stages of Sunday's Victoria and District soccer game, Esquimalt gained a 2 to 2 draw with the youthful Heaneys' aggregation to pull into a first-place deadlock with the Wests, who blanked Legion, 2 to 0, Saturday.

Bink Merluk Sparks Flyers To Victory Over Stampede

EDMONTON (CP)—Jet-propelled Bing Merluk of Edmonton Flyers has found a "cousin" in Russ Dertell of Calgary Stampede, the Western Canada Senior Hockey League's leading goaltender.

Der Bingle completed his second hat-trick in two straight Saturday nights against Dertell to lead the second-place Flyers to a convincing 6 to 1 triumph over the pace-setting Calgarians.

The leg-weary Stampede, playing their sixth game in nine nights, still clung to a three-point margin over the high-scoring Edmonton club. The same teams play again in Edmonton Wednesday in their third meeting in six nights.

A five-goal outburst in the first period, sandwiched around Mitch Petchet's lone Calgary goal, gave Flyers their victory. The Edmonton goal-getters were Merluk, Colin Kilburn and Bernie Bathgate. Don Cully, a Stampede last season, ended scoring in the second session.

Playing against the wind in the opening half, Heaneys put up a stiff defence with goalie Bill Henderson making some brilliant saves to hold off Esquimalt scoring thrusts. The cartegmen fought through the first half with a one-goal lead as Don Henderson opened the scoring just two minutes after the opening kickoff on a fast play through the middle.

Early in the second half, Tom Walker made it 2 to 0. Heaneys came close to increasing their margin on several occasions, but, despite the fact they had the wind to their backs, could not protect their lead.

Towards the latter stages, Gordie Hayward put Esquimalt back in the game when he booted home a penalty kick. Art Young tied it up minutes later on a neat pass from Gordie Duncan.

THIRD SHUTOUT

Wests gained their share of the loop-lead on Saturday by scoring their third straight shut-out victory. Losers were forced to pack their defence as they played the entire contest with 10 men. Game was scoreless until a quarter of an hour from the final whistle, when Lionel Speller blasted the sphere home. Jim Turner led it minutes later.

The Alcos notched their first points of the season when they captured their scheduled game with Duncan Native Sons by default on Saturday. Sunday's second clash between Oak Bay and the Navy was postponed due to wet grounds.

of Calgary staged a wrestling match. The Flyer sophomore was given a major for drawing blood.

Merluk's first goal and the tallies by Kilburn and Petchet were the game's first three shots on goal.

City Blanks Shores In Cup Match; United Rained Out

With the United-New Westminster Royals match being called off due to the unplayable condition of Athletic Park, Pacific Coast Soccer League action Saturday was restricted to a first-round Anderson Cup match between Vancouver City and North Shore.

City blanked the Reds, 2 to 0, on goals by Ivan Carr and Ollie Stanley, one marker coming in each half. The game was played on a field drenched by rain.

The scheduled United-Royals game was the final match of the first-half schedule. No announcement was made concerning this week's possible game. However, it is likely that United will commence play in the Anderson Cup series.

Seattle Boosts Lead; Fresno Here Tuesday

George Senick made three goals last night in leading Seattle Ironmen to a 7 to 3 Pacific Coast League hockey victory over invading Fresno Falcons.

He converted Rudy Pilon's rebound into a first-period goal to put the northern division leaders out in front. Ironmen added three more tallies in three minutes of the second period to build up a winning margin. It was the only league game of the night.

Over at New Westminster Saturday night the Cougars failed in their bid to climb within one point of the second-place Royals as the northern division champions hung on to an early two-goal lead to edge Wares' charges, 3 to 2.

The Royals were strengthened for the game by the return of their No. 1 forward line of Ollie Dorohoy, Kenny Ulyot and Amy Dufail, which has been out of action for the past week.

Coach Babe Pratt, his one-game suspension over, was also permitted to dress for the Royals, but failed to get into the game when he dislocated his back in the dressing-room.

SLATER SCORES TWO

Don Slater was the hero of the game for the New Westminster squad as he fired home two goals. Slater's first goal in the first period gave the Royals a 1 to 0 lead and his second, which came in the second stanza, gave the winners the clincher.

Eddie Mazur notched Victoria's first marker with Royals leading 2 to 0 in the second frame and Eddie Dorohoy got the other in the third. The Cougars held a wide margin on play in the final minutes of the game but could not get the equalizer.

EQUAL RECORD

Tacoma Rockets ran wild against San Diego Skyhawks, equalling the Coast League scoring record for a single game with a 12 to 1 trouncing of the southern division unit.

In the league's other games Saturday night Portland Penquins defeated the Fresno Falcons, 4 to 2, and San Francisco Shamrocks beat Los Angeles, 8 to 1.

This week's action for the Cougars sees the club at home on Tuesday and Friday with Fresno Falcons the visitors Tuesday and New Westminster

The pace-setting Detroit Red Wings lost two games over the week-end, and as a result their lead in the National Hockey League has been whittled down to the less-imposing proportion of five points.

The double defeat for the league leaders may be set alongside the fact that the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs still haven't won in six starts.

Perhaps inspired by the Grey Cup football victory of their townsmen the Alouettes, Montreal Canadiens came up with two victories, and the Chicago Black Hawks also earned four points.

As a result Detroit today have 27 points, Montreal 22, and Toronto and Chicago are tied for third spot with 18. Boston is fifth with 15, one more than New York Rangers in the cellar.

Saturday the Hawks walloped Detroit 7 to 2, Montreal beat Rangers 5 to 1 and Boston tied Toronto 3 to 3. On Sunday the Red Wings were beaten 6 to 2 by the Canadiens, Chicago beat Toronto 6 to 3 and Rangers held Boston to a 1 to 1 tie.

RED WINGS FACTOR

The Canadiens were more than a match for the Wings at Detroit Sunday night. Elmer Lach and Maurice Richard scored in the first period. Roger Leger and Billy Reay in the second, and Norm Dussault and Leo Gravelle in the third. Detroit's goalie Harry Lumley meantime was making 38 saves.

Big Bill Durnan in the Canadian cage was beaten only by Sid Abel in the first period, and Jim McFadden in the last. The Canadiens matched the Wings in the fighting that marked the game, with a free-for-all in the first period and continuous outbursts.

Detroit's loss Saturday was their first in 11 games, when the Wings seemed to fall apart before the aroused Hawks in the final frame. The teams were tied 2 to 2 at the end of the second, Metro Prystai and Adam Brown scoring for Chicago while Sid Abel and Marty Pavelich scored for Detroit.

But a blistering Chicago attack in the third period produced five goals, with nary a Detroit counter. After Bill Gadsby made the count 3 to 2, Roy Conacher and Gaye Stewart scored within a minute and a half, with Metro Prystai and Doug Bentley adding to the top heavy total.

SHAKY DEFENCE

Canadiens didn't have much trouble beating the Rangers Saturday, and only Dunc Fisher's score spoiled a shutout for Durnan. The Montreal goals were shared by Richard, who had two assists; Billy Reay, Rip Riepelle, Norm Dussault and Lach. The Canadiens outshot Rangers 30 to 16 and with a shaky defence in front of him Ranger goalie Chuck Rayner didn't have much chance.

The Boston-Toronto Saturday tie was a disappointment for the big Toronto crowd, who saw the Leafs leading 3 to 2 at the end of the second. Young Paul Ronny scored two for Boston and veteran Milt Schmidt got the tying goal midway through the last frame. It was his second goal of the present campaign. Gus Mortson, Ted Kennedy and Sid Smith were the Toronto goal-getters.

HAWKS IN FORM

The Hawks were still traveling at top speed when they walloped the Leafs at Chicago Sunday night. Referee Butch Keeling called 17 penalties in the rough going.

The Hawks rang up a 3 to 1 first period lead on goals by Olmstead, Red Hamill and Roy Conacher, while Fleming Mackell scored for Toronto. After dippy-doode Max Bentley scored for Leafs in the second, Olmstead and Metro Prystai both beat goalie Turk Broda, making it 5 to 2. Max Bentley got Toronto's last goal and Prystai another for Chicago in the third frame.

At Boston Sunday Alex Kaleta scored for Rangers in the fifth minute of play and the Bruins did not get the tying goal until Johnny Peirson scored on a screened shot in the final period. Summaries follow:

Filchcock Starry Figure In Als Victory; Lear Scores Officials

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO (CP)—The Grey Cup, a much-travelled bit of tarnished silver resting on a slightly-nicked wooden base that has by-passed Montreal the last 18 years, returned to the Quebec metropolis today. Its journey was speeded by the masterful football "moxey" of Frankie Filchcock.

The cup's resting-place for at least a year was assured Saturday when Montreal Alouettes, with the $10,000-a-year Filchcock calling the tune, defeated Calgary Stampeders, defending Dominion champions, 28-15. It was Filchcock's big day before a sell-out Varsity Stadium crowd of 20,147 chilled fans.

He powered the eastern champions with deadly-aimed forward passes, sent them shooting around the ends and through the middle on well-screened hand-offs and "smelled out" many Calgary offenses. He was in the right places at the right times. He didn't score a point, but his field generalship was superb.

FIELD CONDITION POOR

The game left a "rhubarb" in its wake—blasts by Calgary coach Les Lear and President Tom Brook over playing-field conditions. They contended game officials could have protected the playing field with a tarpaulin from the seven-inch late-week snowfall.

"The city of Toronto provided the plows to clean off the field before the game," Brook said. "It certainly wasn't the city's responsibility, but it came through when Varsity Stadium and Canadian Rugby Union officials failed to do anything about it."

Warren Stevens, University of Toronto athletic director, replied that a tarpaulin big enough to cover the playing field would cost around $15,000. He said the expenditure wouldn't be justified because cold weather would still freeze the field under the tarpaulin—and no one has yet discovered how to defrost a frozen field.

Paul Rowe, the blonde 33-year-old backfielder who is quieting the game after 10 years, drove hard all day and cracked the Alouette line for good gains but he lost steam in the clear when he couldn't get traction. On a hard ground his sheer power may have carried him for much larger ground-eating runs.

Sugarfoot Anderson, big Negro end with the tennis racquet hands, cut in for good defensive play and loped across for the Stampeders' second touchdown—a 20-yard gallop after picking up a Montreal fumble. Harry Hood crossed Als' line for Calgary's other major count.

PENALTY HURT

Calgary trailed 11 to 0 going into the second quarter, but it was only hard luck they didn't score on a first-quarter march that put the ball on Montreal's one-yard line. An interference penalty moved the Stamps back 10 yards and their big chance ended there when Keith Spait's forward just missed Hood in the clear.

"If we had clicked there, it might have been a different ball game," Lear said. "We would have had Alouettes on the run, and our boys get awful hungry when they're in that position."

The turning point of the game came before the half when dusky Herb Trawick, 240-pound middle from Pittsburgh, bulled his way past Aguirre, rocked Spait as he was set to toss a forward. The ball slithered to the ground and Trawick wasn't touched as he ran 35 yards into pay dirt with the fumbled ball.

PLAY CALLED BACK

That was it, although Calgary came close to getting back in the ball game in the third quarter on a Filchcock-to-Wagner pass on the Calgary 25-yard line. Rod Pantages intercepted the pass and ran nearly 25 yards, but judge-of-play Jimmy Simpson ruled Pantages had interfered illegally with the receiver.

Lear and Calgary players contended a bad call was made on the play. As it turned out, Montreal went over for its fourth touchdown shortly afterwards to put the game on ice.

Whitneys Maintain Minor Soccer Lead

Nelson Crisp's late goal gave Whitneys a close 2 to 1 decision over Beacon Taxi Sunday to protect their first division lead in the lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer League. A second first division game saw Heaneys trounce Vets of France, 4 to 1.

Ken Barnes opened the scoring for Whitneys for the only first-half score. Early in the second session, Herb Wetherall tied it up, but Crisp found the hemph with the winner shortly before the final whistle.

Kicking downhill in the first half, Heaneys went into a three-goal lead and matched Vets of France single goal in the second half to win handily. Art Dawe, George Goldwell and Lionel Smith were the first-half goal-getters for the transformers. Smith scored winners second-half goal with Bobby Allen scoring the lone Vets tally.

All Saturday games in the juvenile loop were rained out.

New Olympic Body Planned By A.A.U.

TORONTO (CP)—In a move aimed at eliminating some of the tangles that always accompany preparations for Olympic contention, the Amateur Athletic Association of Canada has given final approval to a scheme making the Canadian Olympic Association independent of the A.A.U. of C.

Up to now the executive of the C.O.A. has been limited to officers of the A.A.U., appointed by the president of the latter body. Complaints over a period of years have been that many active amateur athletic associations have been barred from the Olympic committee because they were not in the A.A.U.

The A.A.U. now has called for organization of a new Canadian Olympic Association with membership to be formed as follows: Canadian representatives on the International Olympic Committee; the immediate past president of the association; one representative from each amateur sport in which Canada competes at the Olympics. Appointments, not more than 10 in number, are to be made by the C.O.A.

Calgary Officials Plan Huge Welcome For Beaten Stamps

CALGARY (CP)—Although they lost out in the defence of their Grey Cup title, Calgary Stampeders will be given a heroes' welcome when they return from Toronto.

Sports and civic officials today mapped preliminary plans for a "welcome home."

Harry McConnachie, chairman of the welcome home committee, said, "We want 20,000 to 30,000 people out to meet that train when it pulls in Wednesday afternoon."

"The eyes of Canada are on us. We want a spontaneous welcome to show we are good sports in welcoming back a team that has lost the Grey Cup but won a victory of friendship and sportsmanship of probably greater value," he said.

"We're asking for a special half-holiday to be declared for the schools," he said. It was also hoped to have a civic half-holiday.

There will be a parade through downtown Calgary with the footballers being driven in open cars and the 325 fans who travelled in the special train to ride in open trucks. Bands, cheerleaders and horses also will be part of the welcoming display.

Whither Next For Bill Veeck's Magic; N.Y. Giants Or Browns

By HERBERT GOREN

NEW YORK—Where does Bill Veeck go next? Now that he has cashed in on his promotional know-how, in pursuit of a get-rich-quick career that strikingly parallels Larry MasPhail's, Veeck could be speculating on his chances of making the New York splash—specifically, as big-time operator of the Giants.

In selling out in Cleveland after three spectacular years, the 35-year-old Veeck made it patently clear that he has no intention of divorcing himself from baseball. He got out as boss of the Indians, he said, in order to make money in a capital-gains deal.

For a long time, too, Veeck has confided to intimates that he wants to hit New York. Is it prestige now, and not profit, that this indefatigable dispenser of baseball—both sound and side-show—seeks most of all? He wants to show up the Yankees, perhaps as MacPhail wanted to show up the Giants.

The big stopper, of course, is Horace Stoneham's ties with the Giants. Horace grew into his presidential seat and he feels strongly about his family obligations. The Giants are a treasured heirloom, the sort of thing one doesn't sell.

NOT FOR SALE

Stoneham himself, and many baseball men close to him, have repeatedly gone on record that the Giants are not for sale. Numerous bona fide offers to buy the team have been made in the last 10 years. It may be true that these offers were categorically dismissed, but on the other hand they have jacked up the price beyond reasonable consideration.

MOVE TO MILWAUKEE?

Yet if all this should fail, then what? Would Veeck go for some other franchise? Say, the St. Louis Browns? If he bought out the De Witts, Bill and Charley—and that would be a pushover for Veeck—would he attempt to move the franchise out of St. Louis? There have been yarns about Milwaukee's hopes for big league recognition.

It was in Milwaukee that Veeck's showmanship got its start—like MacPhail in Columbus. After Veeck sold the Brewers, he bought a ranch in Tucson, Ariz., but it was a cinch he wasn't going to watch the ball teams come through his town without having a baseball tie-up himself.

"Down there," he said, "you watch the cactus grow—and it grows about one inch per year. I had to get back to baseball."

So Cleveland came next. Veeck isn't as well-off now as MacPhail was when he quit the Yankees—and Bill hasn't hit New York. But he wants to, and he hasn't been told by A. B. Chandler to stay out of baseball.

Storm May Curtail Spawning Salmon

Government officials and sportsmen were wondering today what effect the heavy week-end rains will have on this year's salmon spawn.

A government inspector at Goldstream, at the southern foot of the Malahat, feared the torrent of water there was washing away many of the fish eggs. He said the situation was serious because of the thousands of gulls waiting to feast on the eggs.

Gang Suspected As Robberies Continue Throughout Victoria

The wave of home and store robberies which started Friday night and have netted burglars a large amount of jewelry and some cash, continued in the city during the week-end.

City police today reported four more homes were entered during the week-end, a bride and groom's car was robbed of two women's purses, a bakery and a garage broken into.

There is a possibility that a gang of burglars is operating to enter homes while the occupants are away.

ALL ROOMS RANSACKED

Close to $350 worth of articles, mostly jewelry, and $20 in U.S. money, were stolen by thieves who broke into the home of Mrs. W. Frither, 2006 Chambers Street, before 10.30 Saturday night. All rooms were thoroughly ransacked. Entry was gained by forcing a basement window.

Burglars took a half-dozen bottles of beer which they found in the house, a diamond ring worth $200, a ladies' wrist watch worth $40, a gold pendant with blue stones worth $30, one plain gold wedding ring, one white-handled bone carving knife, several ear-ring sets, a white linen table cloth and red leather jewel box.

The home of J. Davies, 3115 Fifth Street, was entered through a bedroom window between 6.30 and 9.45 the same night. Stolen were a $100 single stone ladies' diamond ring, $4 in bills and some silver.

DURING WEDDING CEREMONY

While Helen Thompson and A. J. Worth were being married in St. John's Church, thieves stole the purses of the bride and bridesmaid, Elizabeth Jameson, 2417 Mowat Street, from Worth's car, police said. The bride's purse contained $40 and the bridesmaid's $8 and a silver compact.

Somebody had a liking for fruit preserves. Several jars were stolen from a cooler at the home of Mrs. E. Hay, 222 Ontario Street.—A screen was partially removed to get at the jars.

About 24 packages of cigarettes were stolen from the Burnside Bakery, 675 Burnside Road, which was entered between Sunday night and Monday morning, Cyril Waters reported to police. Entry was gained by breaking a small window.

Thieves who entered the home of Mrs. C. A. Gibson, 27 Linden Avenue, broke a window to get into the basement and used an axe to hew an opening in the basement door leading to the kitchen.

House was ransacked, but Philip McNeil, 555 Harbinger St., said he did not know what was taken as Mrs. Gibson is out of town.

A total of $28.50 in cash and a two-cell flashlight were stolen from the home of E. E. Goodwyn, 456 Mosy Street. Entry was gained by breaking a basement window and forcing the door into the kitchen.

All contents of drawers in the bedroom were turned out on the floor, but the burglars in this case were not satisfied with plain robbery. They threw all the towels in the bathroom cupboard into the bath tub, put the plug in the hole and turned the water on.

Art Brown, Atlas Auto Exchange, 845 Yates Street, reported two hubcaps were stolen from a car and several cigarette lighters were stolen during the week-end.

Bob Hawkes of Hawkes' Service Station, Moss Street and Fairfield Road, is checking to see what is missing from the station office. A pane of glass was broken in the door near the lock to gain entry.

B.C. Log Scale Slips In October

B.C.'s forest production last month slipped again behind the corresponding month last year.

The B.C. Forest Service today reported the log scale for last month at 364,637,869 F.B.M. and 319,596 cubic feet. This compared with 419,178,427 F.B.M. and 350,172 cubic feet for October, 1948.

B.C.'s logging industry got off to a poor start this year because of adverse weather conditions and a big carry over of logs from the previous year. During several months, however, more timber has been cut this year than last. The total for the first 10 months of the year is 3,174,788,509 F.B.M. and 2,521,798 cubic feet. This compares with a cut of 3,463,185,193 F.B.M. and 2,125,845 cubic feet for the first 10 months of last year.

Other elements of log scale figures for the 10 corresponding months in brackets are: Poles, 25,740,859 lineal feet (20,192,670); fuel wood, 92,403 cords (91,620); and hewn ties, 406,568 (519,472).

Sirocco Case Again Remanded

Case of Monty Montaine, Sirocco operator, charged with unlawfully operating a dance after the hour of midnight on a Saturday in August, was remanded to Dec. 6 in city police court this morning.

Claude L. Harrison, city prosecutor, asked for the remand, stating he was waiting for a reply from the city solicitor on several points.

James J. Proudfoot, defence counsel, presented his written argument earlier, submitting that the city Places of Amusement by-law was invalid and also that the Sirocco was a cabaret and therefore was exempt from the provisions of the by-law. He claimed the by-law only dealt with public dance halls.

Presbyterian Fights Beer Parlors Here

Victoria Presbyterian of the United Church of Canada representing 741 members of women's missionary societies today asked the government to refuse the Hotelmen's Association permission to sell beer by the glass in Victoria.

A petition is now being circulated by the association asking the government to take a vote of the people on the question.

The Presbyterian wrote the city its stand on the matter. The letter was signed by Lucy M. Gilvin, president, and Mary I. Cromie, temperance secretary.

It stated: "We feel strongly that the granting of any further privileges to the liquor people would most certainly result in the increase in the consumption of liquor, and being fully convinced that such consumption would bring in its wake an increase in accidents and moral deterioration of our people, and more particularly, our young people, we urge our government to refuse the request of the Hotelmen's Association for permission to sell beer or liquor by the glass in Victoria."

ASSISTANT DEPUTY—Charles E. Hopper has been named assistant deputy minister of lands by Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney. In the provincial civil service for 46 years, he was promoted from the position of superintendent of lands.

Motorist Retesting Off To Good Start

Officials of the motor license office said today the re-examination of drivers had got off to a good start this morning in Victoria and elsewhere in the province.

Officials said there was no hold-up for motorists and eventually the office here would handle about 100 drivers a day. The testing takes about half an hour.

Traveling units which will cover the smaller communities will start operating shortly, officials said. They made it clear that it would not be necessary for drivers to travel far for the tests.

179 City Properties Sold In October

There was a slight decline in the number of property transactions in the city during October as compared with activities in the corresponding month of last year, it was learned today at the City Hall.

The value of property in 179 transactions last month was $1,325,195, while in October, 1948, 219 pieces of property which changed hands were valued at $1,447,832.

Last month's transactions were: 131 sales of property valued at $1,122,634; 34 transfers of property valued at $144,880 and 14 transactions through wills of property valued at $57,681.

Pedestrian Hurt In City Accident

Archie Kerr, 61, of 1144 Summit Avenue, suffered lacerations to the face and back of the head and loss of blood when in collision with a car Sunday evening at Hillside Avenue and Blackwood Street, city police reported.

Police said the car was driven by George H. Morgan, 2723 Mount Stephen Avenue, and that Kerr was crossing Hillside, north to south, when the accident occurred. Joseph Robillard, H.M.C.S. Ontario, conveyed the injured man to Jubilee Hospital.

Norrington Seeks Saanich Post

John S. Norrington, 562 White-side Street, today announced he will seek the lone seat on the Saanich Police Commission in the Dec. 10 elections. He will oppose Commissioner G. S. Eden, 3115 Wascana Street, who has announced his intention to seek re-election. The 39-year-old bakery manager was active in the Saanich special police during the war.

A 19-year-old boy in city police court today, after promising Magistrate H. C. Hall he would not drink until he is 21, was placed on $250 bond to be of good behaviour when he appeared on remand in city police court. The boy had been charged with consuming liquor while a minor.

More Rain Follows Week-End Drenching

Two inches of rain fell on Victoria during the week-end and more is coming.

That was "the word" today from the Gonzales Meteorological Observatory.

There were .33 inches of rain on Friday, 1.48 on Saturday and .40 on Sunday, making a total of 2.21 inches.

The 1.48 inches during the 24 hours of Saturday was not a record. On Nov. 13, 1945, 1.57 inches were recorded, and back in 1887 the skies unloaded 2.65 inches during a 24-hour period. "It was considered heavy, record or not," the weatherman commented.

The winds were from the southwest and the west-south west. Peak on Saturday night was at 9.30 when southwest gusts reached 42 miles an hour.

At 3.45 Sunday morning the winds were raging at 60 miles an hour west-south-west gusts which slowed to 44 m.p.h. by 9.30.

At 12 noon Sunday it was blowing southwesterly again in 52 m.p.h. gusts which dropped to 12 m.p.h. west south west at 1.30 in the afternoon.

It picked up again, though, reaching a peak at 6.45 Sunday evening of 32 m.p.h. west south west.

The forecast is for more rain today and Tuesday with 30 m.p.h. southeasterly winds this evening.

Seventh Candidate For Council Seat

A seventh candidate for a seat on the Esquimalt Council came forward during the week-end. He is William Stephenson, 1331 Coventry Avenue, a truck driver for the City of Victoria.

Mr. Stephenson will contest for one of three council seats which voters will be asked to fill Dec. 10. Although a resident of the city, Mr. Stephenson is eligible to run for office in Esquimalt by virtue of property he owns on Colville Road. He has held the property for 20 years.

It will be Mr. Stephenson's first bid for public office.

Others running for council seats are Councillors Charles Smith, G. R. Guillemaud and Fred Higgins, who will be seeking re-election; Mrs. Annie McVie, William Dallaway and Alex Speirs.

Navy Christmas Fare

Checking a few of the Christmas cakes and puddings before they are stored for "curing" is Commissioned Supply Officer F. Foster, central victualling depot, H.M.C. Dockyard. At left, Lt. Pete Bulmer wraps the cakes again for storage. Ships are responsible for icing own cakes. (R.C.N. Photo)

A few days before Christmas 1,300 pounds of Christmas cakes and puddings will go to the ships and establishments in the Pacific Command of the Royal Canadian Navy, to grace the festive board along with the traditional turkey and cranberry sauce.

The cakes, about 750 pounds of them, and puddings have been stored in a cool, dark room in H.M.C. Dockyard where they will "ripen" for the next few weeks before being distributed to the fleet.

Baker by two senior cooks in the cookery school at H.M.C.S. Naden, the fruit cakes and puddings contain about 150 pounds of raisins, 140 pounds of currants, 100 pounds of glazed cherries, 70 pounds of peel, 60 pounds of almonds and 3 quarts of rum extract. The two bakers, CPO. Neil McLeod and CPO. G. Dark, have been working every day for the last two weeks turning out this traditional part of the Christmas fare to allow plenty of time for the ageing process, which improves the quality of fruit cakes and puddings.

After cooling, the cakes and puddings are waxpaper wrapped to retain their moisture, and then shipped to the central victualling depot at H.M.C. Dockyard for storing until ready for distribution.

Says As Much Oil Here As In Alberta

CAMPBELL RIVER—A firm belief that there is as much oil in B.C. as in Alberta was expressed by J. Daines, Calgary, oil expert, who depicted for Rotarians a vision of Vancouver Island studded with oil derricks.

Mr. Daines told the club luncheon meeting that, according to the rock formation, there was oil in B.C., but that it might require deep drilling.

He did not believe shallow drilling would produce results on Lulu Island and said in all probability oil would not be struck until a great depth was reached.

He said he had known 20 years ago there were oil deposits in the Queen Charlotte Islands but had lacked money for development at that time.

"Great oil fields are west of the Rocky Mountains," he said. "There is plenty of oil-bearing strata between California and the Queen Charlotte Islands."

Teach Basic Principles Of Law In School, Says Lawyer

By HARRY ETHERIDGE MONTREAL (BUP)—If a Montreal lawyer had his way, the basic principles of his profession would be taught today in schoolrooms across the country. He believes lawlessness could be reduced by teaching law to the man in the street.

N. W. Jacobs, K.C., said the general public was abysmally ignorant of the workings of the law.

"The law provides a remedy for every emergency that may arise," he said. "The task is to educate every boy and girl and leave them free to go from school into life respectfully law-abiding."

RELATION TO LAW

Ignorance of the law was no excuse, Jacobs said, and people had to be cured of the idea that they had no relation to the law except when they were in trouble.

"The public must be instructed in those phases of the law which concern daily routine and which are associated with civic duty and responsibility," he said.

There were many popular misconceptions of the law, he said, and posed these as a few examples:

lead pencil, it is legal.

If you sign it on a Sunday or a holiday, it is not invalidated.

A contract signed under an assumed name is legal, as long as the signer can be identified.

TOO COSTLY

A great many people could not afford the services of a lawyer, he said.

"It is timely that the public be instructed in those phases of the law which concern daily routine and which are associated with civic duty and responsibility," he said.

Most Germans Happy In New Conditions, Survey Shows

By JOACHIM JOESTEN
MUNICH (NANA) — Despite their many and vocal complaints, the Germans aren't faring too badly these days. A majority of them even feel reasonably happy. It appears from a nation-wide survey (not including the Soviet zone), the results of which have just been made public.

Of several thousand persons questioned in the survey, 56 per cent found their present existence "satisfactory," while 8 per cent actually declared they were "happy."

On the other side of the picture, 25 per cent described their present condition as "unsatisfactory," while 9 per cent found life "depressing," and 1 per cent out-right "unbearable."

By far the largest percentage of "happy" people—almost 17 per cent in this particular group—were registered in the age brackets 18 to 30. Women generally expressed a greater zest for life than did the men.

The survey once proved money alone does not make for happiness in this world. The researchers found the percentage of "happy" people was almost exactly the same in the high as in the low income groups.

Berlin Welcomes Return Of Old Order In Music, Drama

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

BERLIN (AP) — This war-shattered capital is having its gayest and fullest season of concert, opera and drama since Hitler harnessed the arts to politics.

The traditional German love for music and the stage is transcending even the east-west political chasm that has partitioned the city.

The State Opera in the Russian sector presented Richard Strauss' "De Rosenkavalier." A few blocks away, also in the Soviet sector, the Komische Opera presented Bizet's "Carmen." The City Opera in the British sector played Puccini's "La Boheme."

HAMLET OFFERED

A German troupe enacted Hamlet in a British sector theatre, and two theatres in the United States sector had performances of plays by the famous German playwright Carl Zuckmayer.

There was a concert by the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra, and two major recitals in other theatres, one of them by Metropolitan Opera baritone, Mack Harrell.

Showgoers and opera lovers are turning out in throngs to restore their city to its cultural eminence in Europe.

To do so, many have to pick their way to the theatre, in formal evening clothes, past heaps of rubble from allied bombs.

The repertoire is international in complexion, although there is a strong flavoring of such German national favorites as Goethe, Schiller and Wagner.

Berlin officialdom, both east and west, has taken an interest in the theatre and is providing money to back it.

The West Berlin Magistrat, for instance, supported the new "Freier Volksbuehne" (Free People's Theatre) in its opening performance of Hamlet.

The city has six major symphony orchestras.

Berliners have not had a season of music and drama like this in 15 years. When Hitler's Nazis came to power, the stage was made a propaganda weapon and all music and performers had to fit the aims of the new order.

Now, four years after the new order's war ended in defeat, the old order in music and drama has come back to Berlin. And Berliners by the thousand are turning out to welcome it.

Fish Hatchery Land May Be Ceded To B.C. Government

LAKE COWICHAN — A letter from War Assets Corporation was read at the meeting of the Lake Cowichan Chamber of Commerce, stating that the matter of the fish hatchery property would be looked into with a view to ceding the title to the provincial department of public works.

Further, in exchange for right-of-way over the present village park, the public works department would grant the village the balance of the land not required for a roadway.

The chamber felt from the tone of the letter that the village was assured of a park site. The property was recently offered for sale by War Assets and it was urged that it be acquired in the public interest.

A resolution asking that a road-building project to link Camp 6 of B.C. Forest Products to the village of Lake Cowichan was made. The road would be built from the present end of the highway at Honeymoon Bay.

That Tired Feeling Mental, Says Expert

EDINBURGH (CP) — That tired feeling of which many Britons complain nowadays is due, not to under-feeding, but to the "monotony and frustration of postwar life," says Dr. A. P. Meiklejohn of Edinburgh University.

"The lack of free choice in diet certainly contributes to this monotony," he said, although Britons generally were "better fed than their forebears."

"The average British diet during the war years contained adequate amounts of the better-known vitamins and other nutrients. Since then the national diet has not been altered in any important aspect, except that more fruit is now available."

For that reason, he said, the tired feeling was probably mental more than physical.

Prefers Cockpit To Armchair

By GRAHAM TROTTER

EDMONTON (CP)—At an age when many men think of retiring, Arthur Massey (Matt) Berry, pioneer bush pilot, is still relentlessly pursuing the job of opening up Canada's vast north country—a task that has already occupied 21 years of his adventure-filled life.

The 1936 winner of the McKee Trans-Canada trophy, who admits to 57 years although other sources say he was born in 1888, prefers the cockpit of an airplane to a soft office chair in managing two charter airways and other northern interests.

"I've got a lot of flying years in me yet," he says.

FIRST WAR PILOT

The lean six-footer, who was born at March, Ont., just outside of Ottawa, hasn't kept a flight log for the last 17 years because he's been "too busy hopping around." Nor has he any idea of how many miles he has flown over the northern hinterland. He was a pilot in the First World War.

Berry's vast knowledge of the north was evident in 1936 when he flew far into the Arctic barrens to find two members of the R.C.A.F. who had been lost for a month.

The same year he made one of the farthest winter flights into the north in Canadian aviation history. Berry flew 1,750 miles northwest of Edmonton to rescue a missionary and five others who were threatened with starvation. For these exploits he won the McKee award.

He also operates Territories Air Service, which serves much of the north. He has wide-spread mining interests.

His other activities have included construction of small northern airstrips and an entry into politics. In the last federal election he was an unsuccessful Independent candidate for the Yukon-Mackenzie riding.

Wants Doctors Given Wings To Speed Disaster Relief

By CHARLES CORDDRY

WASHINGTON (UP)—A dedicated man is William F. Samayoa. He wants medicine and doctors put on wings so they can get to more people faster.

Samayoa thinks the matter more urgent than ever, now that people are wondering about civilian defence against atomic attack.

So Samayoa is pounding on government doors and persistently advancing his 10-year-old dream of a national air ambulance service to be financed like other group health and hospitalization plans. Eventually, he would like to see it take an international scope.

Nothing but encouragement has met his efforts for years but you can't run even a non-profit, humanitarian enterprise on encouragement alone.

Now the Guatemala-born aeronautical engineer and language instructor thinks he may have the solution. He believes he Civil War Patrol, which has wings in every state, is a proper framework within which to build an ambulance service using helicopters and hospital planes.

GIVEN ENCOURAGEMENT

Without committing itself, the Air Force has written Samayoa an encouraging letter. He carries it with dozens of others. One is from Eleanor Roosevelt suggesting he take his plan to American Airlines, Inc. Another is from Thomas W. Ryan, New York state director of safety, introducing him to the Mayo Clinic and emphatically stating he is "no crackpot."

"Somebody has to fight for this," the engineer said. "To stop now would be like swimming 10 miles and drowning 10 feet from shore."

What he proposes is this: That a national air ambulance service be established with initial financing from fund-raising campaigns and the government. He believes charitable organizations, hospitalization schemes, labor unions, industrial enterprises and flat fees from non-members would keep it well in the black.

CATARRH and SINUS trouble . . . Splendid Results from treatment

Sufferers from the distressing symptoms and wretched discomforts of Catarrh, Sinus and Antrum troubles may now win real relief as thousands of others have done—thanks to Lantigen "B". Letter after letter received in the offices of Lantigen Laboratories Limited tell of the splendid results obtained from the Lantigen "B" treatment. Lantigen "B" is the modern oral way of obtaining relief from Catarrh and Sinus (including Antrum) infections, also common types of Bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. As many sufferers know, catarrh and sinusitis are due to a bacterial infection of the air passages of the head. This may extend down the trachea ("windpipe") to the bronchial tubes and may cause Bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. To raise the defenses of the body against this bacterial infection a special dissolved vaccine for oral administration—Lantigen "B"—was prepared. Lantigen "B" is taken by mouth. Full directions, including reduced dosages for children, are given with every bottle—and when taken as directed Lantigen "B" will help to bring welcome relief from the discomforts of Catarrh, Sinusitis and common types of Bronchial Asthma and Bronchitis. ## Aussie Orchestra In World Class Says Conductor

SYDNEY (CP)—Sydney's symphony orchestra is now in the world class, said Eugene Goossens, its conductor, after he returned here following a nine weeks' tour of Europe. In that tour he conducted concerts with the London Symphony Orchestra and the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra.

Goossens, who came to Sydney several years ago as first permanent overseas conductor for the orchestra, told reporters the Sydney orchestra would give Londoners a shock if they could hear it because it could hold its own with any in England.

"There's a tremendous amount of European interest in Australia and its music," said Goossens. "It's different from the old days when any talk about music in the Dominions caused something rather less than a raised eyebrow. The sooner we put it in that Australia has the beginnings of a rich and important culture the better."

Sydney people were on the whole more developed in musical appreciation than Londoners, claimed Goossens. He said that Sydney had a higher proportion of youth concert subscribers than any other city.

The cost of Sydney's orchestra is shared by the Australian Broadcasting Commission, city council and the state government.

I just can't save money!

That's what I used to say, and it was true. Sometimes I'd dream of the day when I'd have time and leisure to do all the things I wanted to do, but I had to admit I wasn't doing anything about it except dream. I never seemed to be able to put anything aside.

Now, I know those dreams will come true.

They're guaranteed.

Through a simple saving plan which, strangely enough, I've found involves no hardship, I am now saving money for the first time in my life.

African Instability Slows Peanut Plan To Give Oils, Fats

LONDON (CP)—Ignorance of native populations is a big stumbling block in developing East Africa, a British government agency reports.

In Tanganyika many Africans refer to Kongwa as "London" and some think that the British king lives there.

Kongwa, in central Tanganyika, is one of the three principal areas earmarked for peanut production under Britain's so-called "groundnuts" scheme.

In its first report on the plan, designed to help relieve a world shortage of fats and oils, the government's Overseas Food Corporation acknowledged liabilities of more than £23,000,000 ($71,300,000) but said the project will not be abandoned despite early frustrations.

LEAVE QUICKLY

One difficulty about African labor, it is said, is that unskilled workers often stay on the job for a few months, long enough to raise money for their local taxes, then go home. At the same time others would walk hundreds of miles to get a job with the corporation.

British officials, following a directive to provide an outlet for the "ambitious and capable" African, are trying to establish a settled force by building villages in which each African family will have a piece of land.

Not all the difficulties are of the human variety. The report referred to telephone and telegraph systems being constantly interrupted by the "depredations" of wild animals, particularly giraffes.

Want Drivers' Tests Made At Ladysmith

LADYSMITH — By-passing of Ladysmith by the motor vehicle branch testing machine for drivers will be protested to the Attorney-General by the Ladysmith district Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber contends that, with Nanaimo the nearest testing station, hundreds of loggers would have to lose a day's work in order to take the test.

The chamber also decided to urge the city to go ahead with plans for a new city hall now that money is available through sale of the city's electricity distribution system to the B.C. Power Commission for $70,000.

Marks 81st Birthday

Hint Shortage Of Christmas Cards

Possibility of a slight shortage of Christmas cards in the city was suggested today by an official of a large stationery store here.

The spokesman said only about 80 per cent of orders have been coming through because of the lithographers' strike in eastern Canada.

Trend toward religious-type cards—those showing scenes of the nativity, of people going to church, the Three Wise Men, and the like, has not been noticed in Victoria.

SWING IN THE EAST

Reports from the eastern United States have indicated there has been a swing toward this type of card.

Meanwhile, sales in the city have been brisk, with "across the miles" cards and similar kinds being sold in large quantities.

Cards for out-of-town showing pictures of Victoria have also been popular.

Machines, Not Men In Eastern Sewers

MONTREAL (CP)—The day of the "human sewer rat" is over as far as Montreal sewers are concerned.

City authorities have decided that in future the disagreeable type of work which caused sewer maintenance men to give themselves that unsavory title is to be done with machinery.

Heretofore, a special gang of men, picked for their small stature, was retained for working in smaller sewers. They often had to work on little "flat cars" which rolled through the sewer, scraping the sludge before them.

Now the city has tried out a type of machinery which does the job mechanically and workers will stay in the fresh air to operate the machine.

U.S. Air Force Developing Automatic Opening 'Chute

By THOMAS R. HENRY

WASHINGTON (NANA)—An automatically opening parachute has been developed by the U.S. air force. The flier has no rip cord to pull to open the "chute." He will be safe—theoretically—even if he loses consciousness in leaving the plane or becomes too confused to act.

This has been reported to the Association of Military Surgeons by Cmdr. H. A. Smadel of the navy. At present, however, the 'chute represents more an ideal than a practical device. It has worked well experimentally with custom-made parachutes, every detail of which had been supervised. With large-scale production, such as would be necessary for equipping paratroops, there has been a high degree of failure.

BAROMETRIC DEVICES

The automatic opening, it was reported, is brought about by certain "barometric devices." These have not yet been brought to a sufficiently high degree of reliability.

A parachute can be made to open at a specified time by attachments within the plane, such as were used extensively during the war. But Dr. Smadel said, for a variety of reasons the free fall is considered best—if it can be certain the parachutist will be in a condition to pull his rip cord at the right time.

You've written
A TWO-BILLION-DOLLAR STORY!

Every one of the B of M's 1,700,000 depositors has shared in the writing of it.

Simple and straightforward, it tells how the two-billion-dollar resources of Canada's First Bank have been put to work... how these resources—born of the deposits of our customers—are helping Canadians in every walk of life to make a better future for themselves and for Canada.

You can see these dollars at work everywhere... B of M commercial loans are at the highest year-end figure in the history of the Bank.

Reporting

THE FACTS BEHIND THE FIGURES
for 1949

WHAT THE B of M WAS TO MEET ITS OBLIGATIONS:

CASH: The B of M has cash in its vaults and money on deposit with the Bank of Canada amounting to $ 229,296,309.15

MONEY in the form of notes of, cheques on, and deposits with other banks . . . 156,733,757.58

INVESTMENTS: The B of M has over a billion dollars invested in high-grade government bonds and other public securities, which have a ready market. Listed on the Bank's books at a figure not greater than their market value, they amount to . . . 1,644,968,842.21

The B of M has other bonds, debentures and stocks, a substantial part of which represents assistance to industry for plant development in the post-war period. These investments are carried at . . . 122,917,346.16

LOANS: During the year, many millions of dollars have been lent to business and industrial enterprises for production of every kind—to farmers, fishermen, lumbermen and ranchers—to citizens in all walks of life, and to Provincial and Municipal Governments and School Districts. These loans, now at the highest year-end figure in the Bank's history, stand at . . . 487,362,655.41

BANK BUILDINGS: In hamlets, villages, towns and large cities from coast to coast the B of M serves its customers at 541 offices. The value of the buildings owned by the Bank, together with furniture and equipment, is shown on its books at . . . 17,850,169.22

WHAT THE B of M OWES TO OTHERS:

WHICH MEANS THAT THE B of M HAS RESOURCES, OVER AND ABOVE WHAT IT OWES, AMOUNTING TO $ 85,155,810.61

This figure of $85,155,810.61 is made up of money subscribed by the shareholders and, to some extent, of profits which have from time to time been ploughed back into the business to broaden the Bank's services and to give added protection for the depositors.

SOUNDS interesting, doesn't it? You see John works for Cominco*. The Company has a big mine at Kimberley and makes metals and fertilizers at Trail—we live at Trail.

As I started to say, Cominco announced a new plan last Christmas whereby if an employee would put up a cash payment equal to 10% of the cost of a lot and the house he proposed building, the company would loan him the rest, up to a limit of $7,000.

John and I had a spot picked out—a nice lot in one of the new subdivisions... cost $600. We'd been working on house plans for a year or two and finally had bids on the cutest place for $6,400.

So—the house plus lot came to $7,000, and 10% of $7,000 equals $700.

That's our down payment with 15 years to pay the balance. Why, we can pay that off just like rent. Believe me, we can hardly wait.

The Innocent Impostor

By Renee Shann

The Story: Patience Mond goes to London three times a week to attend dressmaking school. It is the only freedom allowed her by the two old-fashioned aunts who have brought her up and with whom she lives in the country. On the commuting train she meets Paul Taylor, who lives in a neighboring village and who finds himself attracted to the prim young girl. Paul takes Patience to the movies in nearby Stortford and later to a dance. Both occasions Patience keeps secret from her aunts, knowing they would disapprove. Meanwhile, her head is in the clouds. Paul has kissed her and told her he loves her.

CHAPTER SIX

ANOTHER MONTH went by. The winter was past and the first fresh green was showing in the hedgerows. "In the spring," said Paul blithely. "Oh, Patience, if you knew how I feel about you!"

Patience knew. She felt the same way about him. Only she'd not told him so. She was far too shy to disclose her emotions.

They were meeting quite often. Always they traveled down from London together. And one evening last week he'd got out at her station. They'd passed through the barrier as two strangers, to meet again in a quiet country lane some little distance away. They'd lingered there for a brief while and then Patience had speeded home on her bicycle, praying that her aunts wouldn't notice she was later than usual in returning.

It was the next time she came back from her day at the academy that she walked into the sitting room and realized instantly that something had happened. Her aunts were obviously waiting for her. The expression on their faces turned her heart to water. They looked shocked and horrified and deeply hurt. Aunt Helen was the spokeswoman.

"I understand, Patience, that you have been meeting a young man these last few weeks about whom you have told your Aunt Alice and me nothing."

Patience felt hot color rush to her cheeks. Her knees shook. "What have you got to say for yourself?" said her aunt severely. Patience made a little helpless gesture.

"I—I don't know."

"You were seen two evenings ago in a lane—"

"It was all—well, what I mean to say is, Paul's terribly nice."

AUNTS WERE SHOCKED

Her aunts' eyes were hard and angry. "I'm not interested in whether you consider him nice. You know, Patience, how very strongly your Aunt Alice and I feel about that sort of thing. That you should have formed a friendship with a young man—someone we don't even know—"

"I'd like you to know him, Aunt Helen. I'd like you both to know him. If you'd only allow me to bring him here so that you can meet him—"

"And where, pray, did you meet him?"

Patience swallowed hard. "You mean to stand there and tell me coolly you—'picked him up' is the phrase I believe used in these days—in the train!"

Miss Helen gasped. "You mean to stand there and tell me coolly you—'picked him up' is the phrase I believe used in these days—in the train!"

Miss Helen was really shocked. "I forbid you ever to see or speak to this young man again," she concluded severely.

Patience looked at her aunts, her eyes full of pleading.

"Aunt Helen, please—" "I want no argument, Patience. I insist on your giving me your word that in future you will have nothing more to do with him. And I know I can trust your word. Now—I want that promise from you and then the matter will be closed. It will not be mentioned again by any of us."

Just for a moment Patience saw red. Hot temper surged within her. Overwhelmed her. A host of bitter words rose to her lips. And then her resentment died away. She remembered how good both her aunts had been to her. How they'd stunted themselves in order to educate her; to feed and clothe her. How they were now going without things in order to pay her fees at the dressmaking academy.

"I'm waiting for your promise, Patience," said her Aunt Helen.

GAVE HER PROMISE

Patience knew if she once gave it she'd have to keep it. Her aunt said she knew she could trust her word. Only—how was she going to face a world in which there was no Paul?

"Patience dear," interposed her Aunt Alice gently. "I think you should understand that it is for your own good your Aunt Helen is asking you to make this promise."

Patience swung around to her. "But why? Aunt Alice, can't you see that it is asking too much of me? There's no harm in my seeing him. In our being friends. He—I—oh, Aunt Alice, I thought perhaps you might understand!"

Miss Alice felt her hands trembling in her lap. Heaven forgive her, she did understand. But it mustn't be. The child was too young. She needed protecting against herself. Later on it would be a different matter. When she was old enough to know her own mind... when some nice young man to whom she was properly introduced came along...

"Well, Patience?" said Miss Helen.

Patience said miserably: "Very well, Aunt Helen, if you insist, I give you my promise." And then she turned and stumbled blindly from the room.

Arthritic Pain— Skin Troubles

Two New Prescriptions
Now at Drug Stores

Two new prescriptions have been thoroughly tested and have shown remarkable results.

For Arthritic and Rheumatic Pain

Buy 3 ozs. of Zolvum Oils. The new prescription is for external use and is a combination of oils which you dab on with a tuft of cotton on the affected parts. The oils will penetrate the skin barriers so there is no question of having to apply massage. Simply ask your druggist for 3 ozs. of Zolvum Oils Concentrated which you massage gently into the skin. The use of the Ointment once or twice every 24 hours will be beneficial.

For Skin Troubles

Buy 3 ozs. of Exoff Concentrated. The prescription is a clear, colourless and odourless liquid which will not stain clothing. Application is simple, you first wash the affected parts with pure soap and warm water. Dry, and the prescription Exoff Concentrated is then patted on with a swab of cotton—apply this prescription from your druggist, simply ask for 3 ozs. of Exoff Concentrated and if your skin gets tender, cracks, or gets dry, you should also obtain ½ oz. of Exoff Ointment. Cut these prescriptions out to remind you or to pass on to a friend.

Roads Crowded At Chungking As People Flee; Reds Approach

CHUNGKING (AP)—Communist troops smashed Chinese Nationalist defences and pushed within 20 miles of this doomed city today.

(An A.P. report from Taipei, Formosa, quoted Nationalist sources as saying here tonight Communist forces had fought their way to the outskirts of Chungking. These sources said they got their information from Chungking, where Generalissimo Chinag Kalshek was reported directing the fighting. The reports said Red vanguards had reached South Springs, a suburb 12 miles from the centre of Chungking on the Yangtze River.)

Some reports placed them even closer. Confusion amounting to chaos followed the news. The rush to get out of the city was so great that roads were glutted. Traffic moved at a snail's pace.

Events within the last 12 hours moved desperately for the Nationalists.

First came the news the Reds, striking from the east, had occupied Chichiang, 40 miles to the south where the highways to Chungking from Hupeh and Kweichow provinces meet.

Then came the news of a quick Communist stab north of here. Tushish, 25 miles away, was captured.

This was followed by a quick advance of five miles, which put the Reds within 20 miles or less of Chungking.

(The nearest Japanese got to Chungking during the war was about 200 miles to the south. Chungking has been the provisional capital of Nationalist China for a little over five weeks.)

16 French Citizens Held Incommunicado

PARIS (BUP)—A spokesman for the French Embassy in Warsaw said today that a total of 16 French citizens are being held incommunicado in Polish jails.

The spokesman reported by telephone that the imprisoned French citizens include four embassy and consulate employees and 12 civilians.

French Ambassador Jean Baen has not been allowed to visit any of those arrested, the spokesman said. He added that the Polish Foreign Office has refused to give any information about their fate.

The spokesman also said French nationals have been unable to leave Poland since the beginning of the Franco-Polish dispute 10 days ago.

"They have not been refused permission, but official red tape has made it impossible for them to leave," the spokesman said.

The spokesman said three of those now held in Polish jails were arrested in Wroclaw nine months ago. He did not specify how many of the others were arrested since the present dispute started.

One French national and a Polish girl worker in the French consulate at Katowice were arrested during the week-end. This brought to four the number of French citizens known to have been arrested since Nov. 18 in addition to French diplomat Andre Simon Robineau.

Robineau was charged with espionage, his arrest started the present dispute between France and Poland.

Island Users Urged To Conserve Power

Because of the storm damage to the Canadian Coilers Puntledge power plant, users of electricity in the Courtenay, Comox, Cumberland and Royston areas have been requested to conserve the use of electricity as much as possible. It is believed the rush of water through the penstocks down to the turbines may have caused a leak, reducing the amount of power produced. Conservation of electricity now may avoid a complete shutdown later.

Probe Mysterious Death In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—A police investigation was under way today into the mysterious death of Isobel Salmon, a 24-year-old Indian woman whose scantily-clad body was found Sunday in a Granville Street hotel room.

Police were told by Robert Cousins, who rented the room, that he had taken the woman to his room Saturday morning and had left her a short time later. He said she was drunk at the time.

The body bore no visible marks of violence. Police sealed the room until an autopsy has been performed.

Caterpillar Reopens Malahat To Traffic

All traffic over the Malahat was stopped Saturday night at 9 when heavy rain washed away a large section of the embankment 150 yards north of Tunnel Hill, sending tons of gravel to block the roadway. Gravel covered the road for 55 feet. In places it was eight feet deep. Department of Public Works crews were on the scene within an hour and had a passage cut large enough to handle one-way traffic by 2 Sunday morning. Large caterpillar tractor, above, driven by Gordon Cosh, had whole section cleared by Sunday noon. (See page 2 for other pictures.)

Storm Death Toll 13 On Island; Damage To Property Said Small

The death toll on Vancouver Island following the worst fall storm in years today was believed 13.

Five are missing at Port Alberni after it is believed a car plunged into the Alberni Canal.

J. T. Berentzen of Prince Rupert was killed and three others were hurt when the car in which they were traveling skidded on wet pavement and smashed into a bridge near Nanaimo.

Aloysius Andrews, master of the troller Westhope, is missing off Nootka.

Six members of the crew of the Victoria tug George McGregor are missing, believed drowned after the tug capsized off Trial Island early Saturday morning.

For the most part Vancouver Island seems to have come through the storm with comparatively small damage to highways, power and telephone lines, homes and other property.

The Indian village at Westholme was said inundated but reports on conditions there were not immediately available.

Two families in the Alberni district are homeless because of floods in their homes.

The Island Highway over the Malahat was closed for five hours Saturday night while works department crews cleared away a slide near Tunnel Hill.

The old Island Highway route to Cowichan Bay was blocked by a slide but entrance to the village was possible from the north end.

Two Lake Cowichan villages were isolated when bridges went out on the Youbou and Honey-moon Bay roads. Wooden planks were thrown across floating logs to allow persons on foot to cross the washed-out sections Sunday.

Part of the government fish hatchery at the lake broke away from its moorings and floated down the lake.

Trees fell across powerlines interrupting electric services in the Sooke and Shawnigan Lake areas.

The Alberni road today was reported sticky but passable after the storm during which Cameron Lake rose 10 feet.

While the road was safe, Works Minister E. C. Carson said that more rip-rap would be needed along the section of the highway completed this year to protect it from a repetition of the storm.

NO GREAT DAMAGE

Mr. Carson, who made a tour of the island roads Sunday, said he believed the damage would not be large. He said there was plenty of debris around but he believed the road would be undamaged when this was cleared away.

False work under the new Chemainus and Cowichan Island Highway bridges was carried away but the bridges, still in the process of erection are believed safe. The false work will have to be replaced in the case of the Cowichan structure but at the Chemainus bridge crews were planning to remove it shortly as the bridge is nearly completed.

The main highway was closed for four hours late Saturday, when high winds blew trees across the road near Cameron Lake. The stages and all traffic were delayed.

Highways to Sproat and Central Lakes were temporarily closed due to storm conditions. All roads were reported passable to careful traffic late Sunday night.

Power lines on Nanaimo Highway were out for three hours owing to damaged transformers Saturday night.

The E. and N. train was three hours late getting into Port Alberni Saturday night, owing to rock slides in the Cameron Lake area.

Two Alberni Families Made Homeless By Flood

(Special to Victoria Times)

PORT ALBERNI—Two families were rendered homeless, district roads damaged and closed temporarily, a logging camp and a sawmill shut down, owing to raging rivers, debris and abnormal conditions in the forest in the Alberni district.

Divers this morning are conducting an intensive search of Alberni Inlet for the taxi missing with driver and possibly two fares since Saturday night.

Rising flood waters following heavy storms Saturday, rendered the families of K. Sanderson at Great Central Lake and F. McLean of Alberni District, homeless.

Raging waters of the Somass River, said to be half-mile wide, dispossessed the McLean family, who reside near the river, above Paper Mill Dam. Returning to waist-high water to retrieve bedding, they were forced to fell a tree to return to higher land.

Dredge With $20,000 Placer Gold Wrecked In Flood Near Princeton

PRINCETON (CP)—A dredge carrying $20,000 worth of placer gold, was ripped from its moorings and piled up in a twisted wreck near here Sunday as torrential rains accompanying the Pacific northwest storm sent district streams to unprecedented fall levels.

The dredge, operated by the James M. Gerety Co. of Portland, Ore., had been in operation only two weeks and its gold load was to have been the company's first "returns" from the enterprise. It had been working the Tulameen River just above the confluence with the Similkameen.

The screaming gale and rain-storm whipped the river into white fury during the night and sent it to almost spring flood levels. Logs and debris, racing wildly down the river, snapped the mooring lines on the dredge and carried it away.

The superstructure was ripped off by a Canadian Pacific Railway bridge 100 yards from the dredge's dock.

Five Towns Isolated In North Washington

SEATTLE (AP)—Washington of the Pacific northwest states today counted the most damage following the week-end storm.

Hundreds of families were evacuated as the boiled waters of the Skagit River in northwest Washington isolated five towns in the Skagit Valley. Four other communities were threatened as five inches of rain fell during a 24-hour span in the upper valley.

The immediate threat appeared, however, to have passed. Early today the normally placid waterway hit its crest with about a foot to spare at Mount Vernon, where rain-drenched sandbag crews of from 300 to 500 men worked to keep the river within its dikes.

Water lay six to eight inches deep over eight square blocks of the city which are about six feet below the level of the river. Merchants moved their store goods to second-story levels.

Approximately 250 persons were evacuated by army and Coast Guard crews from nearby Hamilton. Seven horses were known lost and a herd of 45 dairy cattle stood neck-deep in flood waters mid-afternoon Sunday. The Lyman-Hamilton road was covered five and six feet deep.

The towns of Lyman, Concrete, Rockport and Marblemount also were isolated. Conway, Burlington, Avon and Sedro Woolley were threatened.

As anxious Skagit Valley residents awaited the river's next crest, new flood dangers were reported farther north where the surgng Nooksack River threatened to inundate the fishing village of Marietta, a community of about 300 persons eight miles northwest of Bellingham. All possible aid was summoned from the Coast Guard and nearby Fort Casey.

Vernon Mulatto Faces Murder Charge

VANCOUVER (CP)—A province-wide search for Joseph Oulette, sought on a murder warrant, ended here Saturday night when two detectives arrested the 24-year-old mulatto at gunpoint.

A warrant charging him with the murder of two elderly Chinese at Vernon had been issued Friday night. Oulette was employed by the market-gardeners.

Accompanied by a 16-year-old Indian girl, Oulette was picked up when detectives Matt Rose and Tom Stokes checked a skid-road hotel.

The bodies of the two Chinese, Mah Sing and Lee On, were found Thursday in their cabin near Vernon. Both men had been dead several days.

In city police court today Norman Dalquist was ordered by Magistrate H. C. Hall to post a $250 bond to ensure his good behaviour for six months. He had assaulted his wife. "Any repetition of this and you can be brought before the court again and sentenced on the present charge," warned Magistrate Hall.

Recreation Centre Popular In Regina Was Formerly Jail

REGINA (CP)—A few years ago, the occupants of 1933 Hamilton Street here were behind bars. Now they come and go as they please.

Formerly, capacity was limited and residents led lonely lives. Now the welcome mat invites crowds, and the gregarious soul is in his element.

Entrance requirements used to necessitate a history of misdemeanors, but now the only prerequisite for admission is a young heart and a yearning to learn and have fun.

The familiar red brick building now is the Youth Centre operated by the recreation division of the city parks department. But many Regins remember it when it was the old city jail.

A few dim reminders of the old cells still remain in the vacated basement, but they are forgotten in the merriment of the craft room, the swish of the weaving looms and the laughter in the "teen centre."

SUPERVISED ACTIVITIES

The purpose of the Youth Centre, at its present location since May, 1945, is to give teenagers a wholesome, supervised place to meet for recreation and to learn basic crafts.

The centre provides art and every conceivable kind of basic craft for the aesthetically-inclined. There is a woodworking shop for the industrious; there are leather and weaving classes for adults, grade seven and grade eight students and teenagers; violin classes for aspiring musicians, a model airplane club and the "teen centre" and Peanut Club for social evenings.

Two Men Killed In Truck-Train Crash

WINNIPEG (CP)—Raymond Thomas, 31, and William Coutre, 39, were killed Saturday when their furniture truck collided with a C.P.R. freight train east-bound on the main line in north-west Winnipeg.

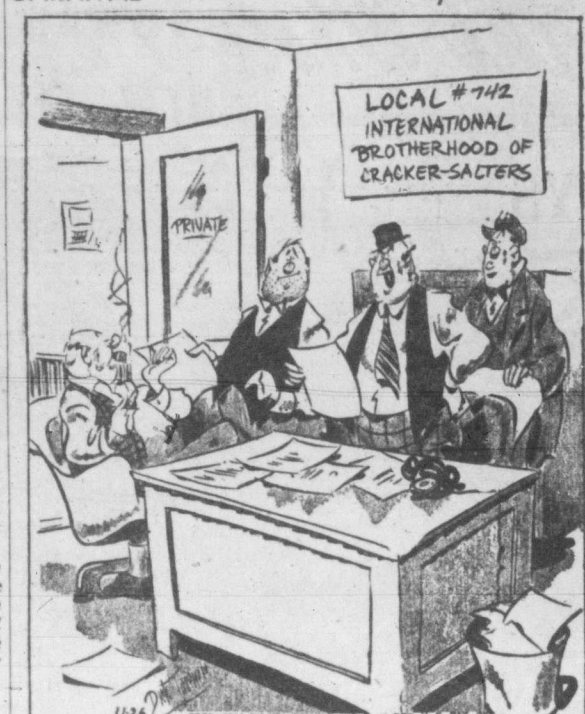

Argyle Dent, who was riding on the back, jumped clear before the collision. He was not injured. The truck, driven by Thomas, was demolished.

To Spend $3,000,000

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Electric Company has announced that $3,000,000 will be spent on transportation improvements here in 1950. Bulk of the money will be spent in purchasing 88 new trolley coaches, said president A. E. Grauer.

Send Parcels Early, Warns Express Man

With Christmas just around the corner and a heavy volume of traffic anticipated, George H. Griffin, manager of the Express Traffic Association of Canada, today emphasized the importance of expressing parcels early if they are to arrive in time for Yuletide and avoid disappointment.

For B.C. the latest days for expressing parcels to Newfoundland is Dec. 9; to New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia, Dec. 12; to Ontario and Quebec, Dec. 13; to Manitoba, Dec. 14; to Alberta and Saskatchewan, Dec. 15; within B.C., Dec. 16.

Layoffs Follow Completion Of Job

Victoria Machinery Depot Co. Ltd. has let off nearly 30 shipyard workers during the past few days owing to completion of a large structural steel job which was being done for the B.C. Electric, according to H. S. Hammill, V.M.D. general manager. There now are a few more than 200 employed at V.M.D.

Pierces Iron Curtain

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP)—James Musselman, an amateur radio operator at nearby Dundalk, says he has received a post-card from an operator in Russia saying he had picked up a message from Dundalk. Said the card: "Best wishes for fine business on distances." It was postmarked Tallinn, U.S.S.R., and signed "Ghegars."

Hits Car, Fails To Stop

About $150 damage was done to a parked car owned by Robert and Joyce Green, 2851 Admirals Road, at 11:45 Friday night when it was struck by a late model car that did not stop, city police said. Collision occurred opposite 516 Rupert Street.

Unions, Shipyards Sign Agreements

Eight member unions of the Victoria Joint Shipyard Council and officials of Yarrows Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot Friday have signed uniform agreements providing for a 4-cent-an-hour wage adjustment and holiday pay.

Labor Minister John Cates attended when the agreements were signed in the Maple Committee Room at the Legislative Buildings.

Terms of the agreements, identical with those signed a month ago between Vancouver shipyard union and operators, include an nual vacation with pay at a rate of 3 per cent of annual straight-time earnings and payments at straight-time rates for three statutory holidays, Christmas Day, Victoria Day and Labor Day, conditional on workers' employment with the company for a continuous period of three months preceding the holiday. Employees still will be considered in continuous employ of the company if absent during the qualifying period due to compensable accident, or for less than a total of five days as a result of temporary slack employment, sickness or other legitimate reasons.

Steeplechase racing supposedly had its origin in Ireland about 1500.

Four Dead In Reported Triple Murder, Suicide

Air Lift Fills 283 Mile Gap

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Canadian National Railway trains will be rolling through the mountains of British Columbia tonight at midnight, a C.N.R. spokesman announced in Vancouver.

A wooden trestle, six miles from Hope will be repaired and all slides cleared in time to permit westbound trains held up at Kamloops and eastbound trains out of Vancouver, to resume service, the spokesman said.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Emergency airlift was established between Kamloops and Vancouver today to fly out storm-stranded trans-continental railway passengers. Kamloops is 283 miles east of here.

Canadian National Railway officials said special T.C.A. and C.P.A. flights had been arranged to take out some 275 C.N.R. westbound passengers who have been waiting at Kamloops since Saturday when rockslides tore out the railbeds. An equal number of C.P.R. passengers were stranded.

HOPE, B.C. (CP) — Fifteen persons—eight of them children—were rescued here after a flash flood threatened to engulf three homes.

An unidentified provincial police constable swam through water on the road to assist two other persons in making the rescue.

Saved from the homes when water swelled within four feet of them, and the road leading to them was six feet below the water level were:

Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKay and their two children; Frank Gardiner, two other adults and four children; and a man identified only as Waechter, his wife and two youngsters.

Dust Storms In South Alberta Cause Heavy Loss Of Soil

EDMONTON (CP)—The high winds which raked sections of British Columbia with torrential rains Sunday blackened southern Alberta with dust. It was the second major dust storm in the province in three days.

Damage to land fertility, through loss of valuable top soil, is expected to be high. After the first storm Friday, agricultural officials estimated the loss would amount to "millions of dollars" in the dry Medicine Hat area in the southeast corner of the province.

The Dominion meteorological bureau in Edmonton reported the gale-force winds struck Lethbridge around midnight Saturday and by Sunday night were approaching Winnipeg after blackening with dust clouds the drought areas of Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Winds of 70 and 80 miles per hour, with gusts up to 90, buffeted Lethbridge until about 9 a.m. Sunday. After dropping off in late morning they returned with 35 to 40 m.p.h. force for most of the remainder of the day.

The storm held Medicine Hat in its grip for about five hours with 40 m.p.h. winds that went up to 75 in gusts and reduced visibility to zero at its peak. Visibility during most of the storm was never more than one-half to one mile.

Calgary also received some of the force of the storm and had blowing dust, as did Swift Current, in southwestern Saskatchewan. Visibility at the Saskatchewan farming centre was down to one and two miles for a few hours around noon.

After the dust storm had left Alberta it was followed by a thunderstorm, something unusual for November, in the area between Edmonton and Red Deer in the north-central part of the province. Lightning was visible from Edmonton.

Want Second Bridge Over Capilano River At West Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — After a week-end of virtual isolation, caused by the washout of the only passable bridge connecting it with Vancouver, West Vancouver today clamored for a second bridge across the Capilano River.

Spearheading the campaign were Labor Minister John H. Cates and the Municipality's Reeve T. J. Brown.

They advocated a new bridge be built above the Capilano Bridge, 140 feet of which was swept away by the swollen waters of the river Saturday.

"For several years I have been advocating such a bridge in order to meet the emergency that has now occurred," declared Mr. Cates.

Present bridge at the proposed site had been condemned for 11 years.

Woman Survives Slayings

EDMONTON (CP) — R.C.M.P. today reported the death of four persons in what is believed to have been a triple murder and suicide in the Silverwood District, 270 miles northwest of here.

Dead are: Walter Grubisch, 48, and three of his children, Mary, 12; Walter, seven, and Joyce, five.

The mother, Mrs. Mary Grubisch, is in Spirit River Hospital, unconscious and in serious condition with a bullet wound in the head.

Silverwood is six miles south of Spirit River.

Police said the victims, all of whom had been shot, were found in their farm home early today.

Believed to be the only remaining member of the family, Charles, 15, was in school when the slayings are believed to have taken place.

Bishop In England Urges Birth Control

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — A Church of England Bishop urged Britain today to sterilize the unfit and make birth control a national policy.

Dr. E. W. Barnes, Bishop of Birmingham, estimated "6 to 10 per cent" of the British population is "mentally below par" and should be sterilized. He said unless this is done Britain will become dangerously overcrowded, and called the British Isles "the paupers of the English-speaking world."

The Bishop told the Birmingham Rotary Club in a prepared speech the Labor government's welfare state has made the problem more pressing than ever.

Fear New Floods In Skagit Valley

SEATTLE (AP) — The fertile Skagit Valley in northwest Washington States braced for another serious flood threat today after a week-end storm had claimed many lives in the Pacific Northwest.

Five towns in the valley were flooded by the Skagit River. Houses and cattle were drowned and several persons were rescued by boat. But no deaths or injuries were reported.

The river dropped during the forenoon, but W. R. Whitnall of the Skagit County engineer's office at Mount Vernon, said it might begin rising again with high tide on Puget Sound at about 12:45 p.m. (P.S.T.).

Concede Filchok Won Football Cup For Montreal Team

TORONTO (CP) — Is Montreal Alouettes' Frank Filchok a better forward-passer than Calgary Stampeders' Keith Spalth? Only one Toronto sports writer climbed out on a limb to answer that question today after Saturday's Grey Cup game which went to Montreal 28 to 15.

Red (Daily Star) Burnett said Filchok gave Spalth, "his youth, a lesson in the art of passing and quarter-backing. He was the big-time performer, showed why New York Giants once contracted to pay him $50,000 for two seasons."

Burnett, who has watched every Grey Cup battle since 1930, said Saturday was "the kind of day when you had to hit a pass receiver right on the nose . . . they had Filchok, the guy who can hit pass-receivers right on the nose with any kind of ball under any conditions." He called Calgary's Sugarfoot Anderson second to Filchok as the game's "outstanding performer."

Annis Stukus, former Toronto sports writer and now coach of Edmonton Eskimos in the Western Canada Interprovincial Union, said in the Star:

"There's been much talk of that estimated $20,000 investment Lew Hayman and company made when they acquired Frank Filchok. In fact, we all conceded the Als the Grey Cup the day the story broke."

Ralph (Telegram) Allen said that "passing was the difference all right—the main difference being on pass defence rather than on attack."

Boudreau To Stay As Cleveland Boss

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Indians' new president, Ellis W. Ryan, announced today that Lou Boudreau would continue as manager of the Tribe through next season.

Boudreau already was under a two-year contract signed last spring. Under terms of that agreement, Boudreau, as player-manager, received a salary reported to be about $65,000 a year.

Boudreau became manager of the Indians in the fall of 1941. Then only 24, he was dubbed the "Boy Manager." He piloted the Tribe to its first world championship in 28 years in the 1948 season and that year won the "most valuable player" title bestowed by the Baseball Writers' Association.

Australia Objects

CANBERRA (Reuter) — An Australian government spokesman said here today that Australia would strongly oppose any move by Japan to settle her surplus population in islands north of Australia. He was commenting on a Tokyo report that Japan hoped for United Nations approval of a plan to settle 5,000,000 Japanese in the south Pacific islands, principally Borneo, New Guinea and Celebes.
